DISSOLUTION IS SET FOR TOMORROW

"No Compromise" Said To Be Italy's Policy At Paris Thursday

Delegation to Tripartite Conference Reported to Have Been So Instructed by Mussolini; Edhe to Urge Economic Rather Than Political Solution

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETS SEPT. 4

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Rome, Aug. 13.—Italy's policy in the tripartite conference in Paris, beginning Thursday, to consider the East African controversy will be one of "no compromise," informed circles said today.

These sources added that Premier Mussolini outlined this policy during conferences yesterday with his aides and members of the Italian delegation to the Paris conversations with representatives of Great Britain and France.

It was said that Italy will neither abase her full demands for a definite settlement of her dispute with Ethiopia nor give further heed to suggestions of compromise advanced from abroad which involve concessions on her part.

In the light of this policy, an official announcement in the weekly Review Affairist does not present the point of view of the foreign office. It was suggested that today's pointed declaration of policy was made to prevent the article published in the Review, which suggested possibilities for peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, from being construed as authoritative.

BRITAIN'S PLAN
London, Aug. 13.—An authority said today that Anthony Eden, Minister for League of Nations Affairs, will urge an economic rather than political basis for the solution of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute this week.

It was stated he was prepared to offer this suggestion when the tripartite conference on the Ethiopian question opens in Paris Friday among representatives of Great Britain, Italy and France.

KINGSFORD-SMITH BUYING PLANES

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Aug. 13.—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, noted trans-Pacific flier, today was scheduled to fly to San Francisco to confer with Igor Sikorsky, airplane designer and builder, about the purchase of several amphibian planes for a proposed Australian-New Zealand mail line.

Purchase of the planes, Sir Charles said, depended on the outcome of negotiations for a mail contract.

The flier arrived here last week from his home in Australia.

R. C. Cartwright Resigns Post

Premier Pattullo's Secretary Goes to Position in Africa

Richard C. Cartwright, secretary to Premier Pattullo, has resigned his position here to take an important commercial post in South Africa, it was learned today.

Premier Pattullo accepted his resignation with regret and said he had not made immediate plans to fill the post.

Mr. Cartwright has been taking his annual vacation. He went to California and was offered the post in Africa, which he accepted with the Premier's consent.

Mr. Cartwright, whose family resides in Vancouver, came to Victoria last year to take over the position with Premier Pattullo. During his stay here he made a host of friends.

KING, HEPBURN, JOIN FORCES

Liberal Election Campaign Opened To-day in Western Ontario

Canadian Press
Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 13.—Liberal Leader Mackenzie King and Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario joined forces today in opening the Liberal election campaign in western Ontario.

Mr. King and Mr. Hepburn both addressed a Liberal picnic here, in support of A. S. Rennie, M.P., Liberal candidate in Oxford.

"I want to take this opportunity of pledging to Mr. King my loyal and undivided support in this campaign," said Mr. Hepburn.

Premier Bennett was politically dead and there was no advantage in throwing stones at the dead, he said. It should be remembered, however, that Mr. King and the Liberal Party had opposed every one of Mr. Bennett's policies which they knew would injure Canadian trade and lower the standard of living of Canadians.

Were it not for the ever-increasing demands for relief, Ontario could present a rosy financial picture, said Mr. Hepburn. The federal government had promised assistance for relief and relief works and had cut down its contributions after it got the province "in the mire."

TRADE CURTAILED
The high tariff policy of the Bennett government curtailed Canadian trade and was largely responsible for the financial difficulties of the province, said Mr. Hepburn. Trade has fallen 50 per cent during the Bennett regime in contrast with steady increases under Liberal rule. Foreign countries had retaliated against Canada and shut out Canadian goods.

Hon. H. H. Stevens had "changed leaders" after the federal by-elections last fall, the Ontario premier asserted.

The Bank of Canada should be publicly owned, said Mr. King proposed to make it, said Mr. Hepburn. Recently he said the Bank of Canada had allied itself with the same financial ring which was trying to throttle Ontario.

MACKENZIE KING
Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—No single part of Canada can prosper at the expense of the rest, Mr. King said at a Liberal picnic here today. Unity and a national viewpoint were essential and the Liberal Party's policy in the election campaign was framed with that mind. It was addressed to every citizen in every part of Canada.

"The most autocratic Tory government this country has ever had in office," was the way Mr. King described the Bennett government.

Great economic questions were really very simple if one stopped to consider them, said Mr. King. They

JAPAN TARIFF HITS LUMBER

Loss of Business to B.C. Said to Be 7,000,000 Feet a Month

Close to 7,000,000 feet of lumber business per month has been shifted from British Columbia to the northwest United States as a result of the Japanese retaliatory tariff against Canadian lumber, newsprint and wheat, according to estimates reaching the Parliament Buildings today.

Congressmen estimate that this means a loss of employment for roughly 1,500 men in the woods and mills of the province.

Several mills, especially on Vancouver Island, have been caught with stock of Japanese squares for which they now have no market, it is reported. The squares are cut especially for Japanese use and cannot be sold elsewhere.

The Japanese tariff, prompted by the Canadian government's currency dump duty against Japanese goods, has completely shut the B.C. lumber business out of that market, it is stated.

Lumbermen, it is understood, are planning a drive when the government changes at Ottawa to reopen negotiations with Japan and recover the lost market. They foresee grave difficulties, however, since the Japanese have now made their business connections in the northwest U.S. and diverting of the trade back to British Columbia will be a troublesome task.

SAYS WEATHER WILL BE FINE

Wind Drops Temperature to 64 at Noon But Napier Denison Optimistic

Despite a forty-miles-per-hour west wind which has blown away the heat wave, E. Napier Denison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory, predicts that the present fine weather will continue for a few days, as the barometer is high all over the North Pacific Ocean and the weather map looks settled.

The temperature on Gonzales Hill at 1 o'clock this afternoon was 64 degrees without any further rise expected. This is twenty degrees below the maximum temperature of 84 yesterday.

The heat in the interior of the province has caused the present wind, Mr. Denison says. At Kamloops yesterday the temperature was 93, while at Nelson it was 91.

At Seattle the thermometer registered 86 degrees, while Portland sweltered in a heat of 100 degrees in the shade. The heat wave, however, was much worse in Northern California, for at Roseburg the thermometer slipped up to 106 and the Sacramento Valley slithered under a temperature of 110 degrees.

Throughout the prairies the temperature ranged between 80 and 86 degrees, the weather man on Gonzales Hill reports. In contrast to this it is still raining heavily on the north coast, from Prince Rupert upward, he says.

There is an incident in one of the numerous riots in Paris when fifty thousand people demonstrated against the pay cuts imposed by Premier Laval's economy budget. This demonstration was one of 1,300 arrested during the riots.

Dispatches from Paris today said fifteen workers' organizations have ordered their members to demonstrate August 20.

A general strike, though discussed, has not yet been ordered by the union leaders.

Cecil Calls For Plain Speaking To Assure Peace

Failure of Great Britain to Make It Clear to Italy That She Is Not Bluffing, Revives Tragic Sequel of 1914, Says Leading Peace Advocate

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Foreign Staff
London, Aug. 13.—The British government faces a tragic sequel to 1914 through its failure to make it clear to Italy that Great Britain is not bluffing and is prepared to stand by the League of Nations covenant "even if it means war," Lord Robert Cecil, Britain's leading peace advocate, said today.

"Only plain speaking can save us from a repetition of the fearful blunders of twenty years ago," the former British Under-secretary for Foreign Affairs told the Associated Press.

Earlier in the day Lord Cecil expressed his attitude at a special meeting of the executive committee of the League of Nations Union. The committee adopted a resolution pointing out the danger of any British uncertainty and insisting that collective action by the league members is "indispensable" if war is to be prevented between Italy and Ethiopia.

YOUNG GIRL SAVES CHILD

Marilyn Smith Hero in Rescue As Four-year-old Playmate Falls in Sea

Little four-year-old Eileen Hendry of Winnipeg, who is spending the summer with the family of George Reside, 2153 Quimper Avenue, probably owed her life to her young playmate, Marilyn Smith, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith, 2120 Penzance Road, today.

While playing yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock on the rocks near Rescue Bay, between Foul Bay and Shoal Bay, little Eileen reached too far for a stick floating in the water. She overbalanced and tumbled into the sea.

Seeing her friend in difficulty, Marilyn immediately waded into the water as far as she could and reached the struggling child as she floundered about in the water. Marilyn pulled the little girl to safety before she was swept into deeper water.

The child's mother was on the beach near by, but could not have reached her daughter in time to save her, had not the quick minded little Miss Smith waded out to give her aid. Apart from a bad fright, Eileen was no worse for her ducking today.

ROUS CULLIN PASSES AWAY

Former Commander of 88th Battalion, C.E.F., Dies After Long Illness

Col. H. J. Rous Cullin, who commanded the 88th Battalion C.E.F. during the Great War, passed away yesterday morning at the Jubilee Hospital, after an illness of several years' duration.

Harold J. R. Cullin was born in England sixty-one years ago, son of Canon Rous Cullin of Canterbury, Kent. He came to Victoria thirty years ago and practiced his profession for a time with Sam. McClure, and later on his own.

On the formation of the 88th Puffinblowers Regiment in 1912, he joined it as senior captain, and in 1914 was promoted to the rank of major.

In August, 1914, he enlisted for active service, and later became Lieutenant-Colonel in command of the 88th Battalion, taking the battalion overseas. Col. Cullin also served during the South African war with the Royal Engineers, as a subaltern.

After his discharge from the C.E.F. in September, 1917, owing to ill-health, he spent some years in Kelowna, where he was for several years in the employ of the Provincial Lands Department, later practicing his profession as an architect there.

He then returned to Victoria and for eighteen months was in the Provincial Lands Department at the Parliament Buildings, until ill-health forced his retirement about three years ago.

Col. Cullin was associated with the University School for some time, having been bursar when it was first formed.

Col. Cullin is survived by his widow and one daughter at the family residence, 130 Menzies Street.

CRUISER TO STAY HERE TILL MONDAY

Commander W. W. Smith, executive officer of U.S.S. Salt Lake City, has received permission from the U.S. Navy Department for the ship to remain over in Victoria until Monday.

This will necessitate a change in the visiting hours on the ship. It will be open to the public today, Friday and Saturday afternoon from 1 till 5 o'clock, and on Sunday visitors will be received from 3 a.m. till 5 p.m.

Guides will be stationed at the gang planks to show visitors over the cruiser.

The Salt Lake City is tied up alongside the landing wharf at the Dominion Government drydock at Esquimalt. It can be reached by leaving the Esquimalt street car at Admiral's Road.

Associated Press
New York, Aug. 13.—Plans for two super-liners capable of carrying 5,000 persons in a single crossing and costing about $50,000,000 each, were reported in the making here today, with Paul W. Chapman, former president of the United States Lines, cast in the role of their sponsor.

Members of Chapman's staff would not discuss details of the proposed ships.

Marketing Act To Be Enforced

Government Confiscates "Bootleg" Potatoes Shipped to Vancouver

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Aug. 13.—Forty tons of "bootleg" potatoes, confiscated from seventeen trucks, all operated by Chinese, and allegedly hauling potatoes to market in contravention of orders issued by the British Columbia Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, were removed today to warehouses of the board.

Inspectors appointed to enforce the board's regulations stated the majority of the trucks were ones which took part in a break through police lines at the Lulu Island bridge at Marpole, Sunday night. They were stopped last night by an augmented police force.

None of the trucks was seized, but all were unloaded and the potatoes removed to warehouses, where they will be held until existing quotas are exhausted. They will eventually be sold and the returns will be forwarded to the growers, according to the board.

The provincial government will support fully the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board in enforcement of potato marketing regulations, which have allegedly been violated by Chinese growers on the mainland, it was announced here today, following the incident at Lulu Island yesterday, when seventeen trucks smashed through a police barrier.

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture and Attorney-General Gordon Sison, conferred regarding the situation this morning, and it was then stated provincial police had been instructed to use all the means necessary to prevent illegal shipment of potatoes into Vancouver.

Dr. MacDonald termed the incident a planned attempt by Orientals to override and defy the laws of the province. This would not be tolerated for a moment, he added.

The minister said he had been asked to relax the vegetable board's regulations in favor of the Orientals, but had refused to do so. As far as the government was concerned white and Oriental growers would be treated on an equal basis.

MC FARLAND SILENT
Winnipeg, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—John I. McFarland, director of federal government wheat price stabilization efforts, returned to Winnipeg today from Ottawa where he had conferred with Premier Bennett.

Prominently mentioned as likely chairman of the new Dominion Wheat Board, Mr. McFarland declined to comment until official announcement of personnel of the board had been made at Ottawa.

E. B. Ramsey, chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners, also returned to Winnipeg today from Ottawa. His name has also been associated with reports of the wheat board appointments.

239 Candidates To Run In Alberta

Filing of Nominations in Prairie Province Shows Largest Number Ever to Contest an Election in Western Canada

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Aug. 13.—The stage was set today for the Alberta general elections nine days hence, with the official filing of nomination papers for 239 candidates.

This is the largest number ever to contest a provincial election in western Canada.

The Alberta Social Credit League, led by William Abernethy of Calgary, yesterday placed the most names before the electors for balloting on August 22. They have sixty-three candidates in the field; a representative in every riding.

Next in point of number is the Liberal Party with sixty-one, in addition to one candidate ticketed as an independent Liberal.

Belief Exists in Ottawa That Either September 30 Or October 7 Will Be Announced as Election Date; Radio Broadcasting to Start on Monday

New Appointments Are Now Pending

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Aug. 13.—Dissolution of Parliament has been definitely set for tomorrow and the Proclamation will be accompanied by issue of writs for the general election it was announced by Premier R. E. Bennett today. This was the government's plan at the moment and it was believed unlikely to be changed in the meantime.

Date of the election is still a matter for speculation and the belief is that either September 30 or October 7 will be chosen.

Prime Minister Bennett had a long interview today with J. E. Lawson, Dominion Conservative organizer, and other officials of the organization.

The Conservative Party has made tentative arrangements for space for radio broadcasting beginning next Monday and extending to September 27.

COUNCIL MEETS
A cabinet council meeting was called this afternoon and further appointments were expected to be announced at its conclusion.

Among the appointments likely to be announced are those to the Canadian Wheat Board and it was reported on good authority that the commissioners would be John I. McFarland, head of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers' Limited; Professor H. C. Grant of the University of Manitoba, and David Smith, Winnipeg wheat operator.

Open in Vancouver

Vancouver, Aug. 13.—During the last five years 107 additional manufacturing establishments have been opened in Vancouver, according to the seventh annual survey of the imports of western Canada from foreign countries prepared by R. H. Arnott, industrial secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

The report notes decreases occurred in British Columbia's imports in the last year in fresh fruits and vegetables, molasses, yeast, gloves, meat extracts, cheese, flax, hemp products, cement, soap, fertilizers and varnishes, as well as other articles.

Total imports of the four western provinces in 1931 were worth nearly $40,000,000; last year they totaled $25,630,000. Total imports through British Columbia ports increased from $36,526,563 in the fiscal year 1934 to $43,204,210 in 1935.

NEW "ICICLE"
CANDIDATE

D. O. Trout, Out-of-work,
Offers Himself to Dr. R.
Willard For Experiment

Associated Press
Binghamton, N.Y., Aug. 13.—D. O. Trout, thirty-eight, of Binghamton, said last night he would offer himself to Dr. Ralph S. Willard, California chemist, as a "human icicle" to assist in experiments being conducted in freezing and reviving animals.

Trout announced he had been out of work for four years and that he has a wife and two children. He said he would inform Willard that he would take the place of Stephen Simkhovitch, California resident now "in training" for the experiment. At present Trout is on relief rolls.

Simkhovitch's mother has objected to his trying the "human icicle" stunt.

Associated Press
Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 13.—Growing threats of legal intervention apparently served to-day to melt some of Stephen Simkhovitch's determination to be frozen stiff in an ice box as an experiment in science.

"I will do nothing illegal," the thirty-four-year-old screen writer said, "and if the law declares the proposed experiment in that category, I will withdraw."

Simkhovitch last week signed a contract with Dr. Ralph Willard, Hollywood research chemist, to court death by refrigeration in an effort to prove Willard's contention that certain diseases can be eliminated by freezing and that a human being can be revived after the icing process.

MEDICAL VIEWS
Associated Press
New York, Aug. 13.—Two leaders in medical science stood to-day on the assertion that Ralph S. Willard of Los Angeles can no more freeze Stephen Simkhovitch to death and revive him, than he can reassemble a scrambled egg.

Dr. Jago Galdston, secretary of the New York Academy of Medicine, said that when the 80 per cent of body tissue which is water is frozen, protoplasmic structure is destroyed and cannot be restored.

He termed "preposterous" Willard's plan to refrigerate the thirty-year-old scenario writer.

Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, editor of The American Medical Journal, said Willard's monkey freezing was "probably achieved by a neat trick of substitution which any competent magician could perform."

Waterton Lakes
Fire Danger Past

Canadian Press
Lethbridge, Alta., Aug. 13.—All danger to life and property in Waterton Lakes national park in the devastating forest fire which swept the lake shore over the week-end is now past.

Superintendent E. T. Scoyen of Glacier National Park, who is on the actual scene of the blaze, reported to Waterton Lakes townsite to-day that the fire is now well under control. Superintendent H. H. Knight of Waterton immediately issued a statement in which campers and cottagers are permitted to return to their homes.

On Saturday afternoon it appeared that the townsite would be wiped out by raging fire, but it took a change in the direction of the wind and a light shower of rain checked the fire. On Sunday the situation was again critical for a time, but the hundreds of fire fighters were eventually successful.

Damage was confined to heavy stands of timber along the lake side and higher on the mountains.

"Pieces of gold ranging in size from one to over thirty ounces have been picked up in the last few days on the placer property being worked by the Compagnie Francaise du Canada, a Paris, France, concern, alongside holdings owned by myself and associates, including Senator Patrick Burns, of Calgary," Dr. Henderson said.

SMUTS FEARS
WAR SPARK

Points to Danger of Clash
Between Whites and Blacks in Africa

Associated Press
Durban, South Africa, Aug. 13.—Veteran South African soldier and statesman, Jan C. Smuts, gave warning to the world yesterday that an Italo-Ethiopian war may strike a spark which will explode the powder keg of relations between blacks and whites throughout Africa.

"I think it will shake the whole system of civilization to its foundations, should the League of Nations fall at this critical moment," he said. The veteran of the Boer War and the Great War, now the Union's Minister of Finance, broke his government's attitude of official silence concerning war prospects when he said that Italy's adventure in East Africa could not be looked upon as an isolated move.

"It will create a serious position because of the repercussions in adjoining British territories and the intensification of black-against-white feeling."

General Smuts expressed the opinion that Italy is banking on divergent views of France and Britain to prevent them from taking a strong position as interceders.

He also predicted a long and costly war, in the event that Mussolini attempts to storm the Ethiopian stronghold.

"Italy may overwhelm Abyssinia at the start with airplanes and poison gas," he said; "but it is one thing to overwhelm a country, another to occupy it. She may find she has bitten off more than she can chew."

No Need For Terror
If Comet Hit Earth

All That Would Probably Happen Would Be Shower
Of Meteors, Says Dr. A.
McKellar: "Shooting Star" Weighs One Hundred Thousandth of Pound

"The chances of a comet striking the earth are one in 80,000,000, and even if one does, all that will probably happen will be a magnificent shower of meteors," declared Dr. A. McKellar of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, in a lecture before the Victoria Astronomical Society at the Victoria College yesterday, discounting the popular fear that a comet would bring the world to an end.

"Meteors are remarkably small, in fact, most of them weigh less than one one-hundred-thousandth of a pound," Dr. McKellar said at the beginning of his talk on "The Story of Comets and Meteors." "However, they make up for their weight by their heat, which is about 3,000 to 4,000 degrees Centigrade."

The astronomer described how the path of a meteor was mapped, and its speed and mass computed. Meteors, he said, were usually first seen about seventy miles above the earth and burnt out forty-five miles up in the atmosphere, so there was little chance of any of them hitting an observer.

A fireball was a meteor which was larger and spent longer in the earth's atmosphere, finally ending up with an explosion, while a meteorite was an enormous meteor which did not completely burn up before it struck the earth, he said.

LARGEST METEORITE
The largest whole meteorite ever discovered was in South Africa, Dr. McKellar said, and it weighed fifty tons. A meteorite which crashed into Siberia in 1908 made such a noise that it sounded like a terrible thunder storm to the people in a town 400 miles away. When the Soviet Government sent an expedition out to investigate the meteorite in 1927, they found that the trees for thirty miles around where it had crashed had been blown down like match-wood.

Several million meteors bombarded the earth every day, Dr. McKellar said, but due to their tiny size they had not much effect on the mass of the earth. Every so often the earth ran into showers or groups of meteors in its passage through the sky. These showers were spread out in an orbit around the sun, and were believed to be the remains of exploded comets.

In fact, it was a generally accepted fact that the perished shower of meteors which the earth was passing through now was Tuttle's comet, which was last seen in 1862.

In 1833 the most remarkable shower of meteors occurred, the lecturer related. Many people believed the end of the world had come when the heaven was lit up by a "spectacular display of fireworks. Shooting star could be seen falling at the rate of 10,000 per hour.

There were three distinct parts to a comet, Dr. McKellar said. First, the nucleus which usually was about 500 miles in diameter. Secondly, the nebulous cloud around the nucleus which was known as the coma and which was anywhere from 200,000 miles to 500,000 miles in diameter. Lastly, there was the famous tail of the comet which usually reached out 50,000,000 miles into space.

TRANSIENT BODY
From these figures it could easily be seen that a comet was a huge body. In fact it was only superseded by two other heavenly bodies, the red giant stars and some of the nebulous clouds. But though the comet was huge in size it was small in weight. It was computed to weigh less than a millionth part of the mass of the earth.

A comet was transparent, Dr. McKellar said. Through its tail and even through its nucleus the light of the sun could be seen. The lecturer went on to show how the tail of a comet was almost a perfect vacuum. He said that 3,000 cubic miles of the comet's tail would only weigh as much as one cubic inch of air. Even one square mile of the nucleus, the densest part of a comet weighed only half an ounce.

Some of the comets we're wandering through space attached to no particular system but drawn from one star to another, while others were members of the solar system, the lecturer said. The first of these had hyperbolic paths while the last had elliptical paths.

TAIL OF COMET
The tail of a comet always pointed away from the sun, Dr. McKellar said. When a comet was approaching the sun it was even to have no tail at all, but as it drew closer and closer its tail grew larger and larger. The explanation of this was that the sun's heat made the comet give off gases and particles, while the pressure from the radiating light kept the gaseous tail always perpendicular to the sun.

Dr. McKellar showed many interesting slides, a large number of which dealt with Halley's comet which had been observed down through history and appeared at the Battle of Hattin in 1098. The last time this comet had been seen was in 1910, and it would not be seen again until 1987, as it hit a seventy-seven-year period.

Commander P. R. Tingley, vice-president of the society, was in the chair. Miss Phoenix gave a short talk on the magnitude of stars.

ENGRAVED RICE GRAINS
Toronto, Aug. 13.—Talk about sticking to the point. Two grains of rice arrived here to-day to be shown at the Canadian National exhibition, one of them with the portrait of the King and Queen carved upon it, the other bearing a miniature of the Taj Mahal.

When King Had
First Haircut

Barber Chair in Which He First Sat Proudly Displayed by George Debus of Kitchener, Ont.

Canadian Press
Kitchener, Ont., Aug. 13.—The barber chair in which His Majesty, King George VI, had his first haircut is the proud possession of George Debus.

Debus, who left the barbering profession in 1914, said to-day the chair was not for sale.

"The last time I saw Billy King he wanted to take it with him, but I wouldn't part with it," he said.

The little swivel chair is more than just a barber's chair to Debus.

He said practically every community leader in the city had undergone his first major tonsorial operation between its arms. There was hardly one native-born business man in Kitchener who had not at one time or another sat upon its wooden seat.

"Part with it, I should say not," he said.

POLICE SEEK MENTAL CASES

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Aug. 13.—Royal Canadian Mounted Police searched for five escaped patients from the Ponoka mental hospital to-day.

Dressed in khaki work clothes, the men walked away from the hospital grounds Sunday night, but it is believed officials are not particularly concerned, as none of the five is described as dangerous.

It was explained some patients at the institution have more freedom than others.

PLAYED WITH SNAKE

Calhoun, Colo., Aug. 13.—Seven-year-old Vern Johnson liked the cracking sound of the rattles on the tail of the snake that alighted in the Floyd Johnson back yard here. He picked up the reptile in his arms and carried it to the house. He laid the snake on the porch, because it was heavy, but ran to pick it up when it tried to crawl away. This time the rattler struck.

Vern died in convulsions shortly afterward.

THE CHALLENGE TO THE SCHOOL-MAN

THE QUESTION OF THE IDEAL CURRICULUM for the public schools is one that probably will never be settled—not in a changing society. Everyone quite properly has ideas about what should be taught and how, and these ideas are in a state of constant flux. Theoretically, at least, it is the task of the educationist to approximate in the curriculum the ideas of the community on what in the way of knowledge and training the younger generation should be equipped with as it is started out in life.

There should thus be interest in the paragraphs on school curriculum submitted in the exhaustive report of Major H. B. King, commissioner on School Finance in British Columbia. He seeks to establish the point that actually the curriculum in our schools "is partly the result of accident, of temporary adjustments and concessions and the fitting in of the programme to the time that was available." He finds it has not been adequately studied from a scientific point of view, that it tends to be maladjusted both to the individual and to the needs of society, that the last needs thought of are the needs of the individual or the needs of society.

"More potent than these needs are the desires of those who teach or control the subjects comprising the curriculum," Major King says. "The curriculum tends to become, in the academic subjects, at any rate, what professors in the dominant university or universities believe that they would like the students to know when they come to them."

This is not as it should be, for it is, as Major King points out, surely obvious that what a university professor thinks he would like the student to know when he comes to him is no criterion for determining what a boy or girl should be doing or should be learning throughout some twelve years of elementary and secondary school life. "No student of education," he believes, "would accept such a criterion as a valid one. Actually, however, the wishes of universities in the matter of curriculum have been more influential in determining the content of school instruction than has anything else." Major King suggests that here the science of education, now available, should step in. He advises a thorough recasting of the educational system of the province from the standpoint of curriculum, as well as administratively, with the curriculum viewed not as a fixed thing, but as subject to ready adaptation. He finds too many pupils, destined to failure in them, are taking courses leading to the university, largely because of the glamor associated with university education. Courses, he recommends, should be planned to suit individuals after careful diagnosis of the individual's capacities and needs, and not least of all, his tastes. . . . To many youths Latin and French may provide great, even immeasurable intellectual stimulus; to a few persons Greek may be of more worth than all the rest of the curriculum. Guidance, involving both educational and vocational guidance, must necessarily be upon an individual basis, with careful diagnosis, leading ultimately to self-discovery and soundly motivated endeavor. This means there should be available at least a number of secondary schools of the composite type, where the barriers between courses, or organized curricula, are broken down.

"Also," Major King says, "it means that the superstitions or the credulity of the public as to the mysterious alchemy of the university matriculation examinations should be destroyed." As for the professional educationists, who in fact control our mass education, theirs is the weakness of the naturally constructed professional outlook. Their tendency has been "to think of the educative process as mastery of the curriculum, the sense of accumulating a mountain of information," forgetful that the school should be concerned with the total personality of the student. Vocational training, he suggests, would fill a need, adding as an objective the development of certain practical skills.

"As things are," Major King summarizes, "the contrast between actuality and achievable ends is too great. Hopefully, he put forward his belief that "when the schools begin to bridge this gap there will be little trouble in financing them, partly because the public will be readier to pay, partly because society itself will become richer and will be able to pay. To bridge this gap—to modernize education—is the present-day challenge to the school-man."

ABLE TO BUY CARS AGAIN

NOW THAT THE FIGURES ON automobile sales for the first six months of this year have been compiled, we are more than ever willing to believe that things are not so bad as they were, or as bad as some who may have slumped into chronic pessimism would argue they are.

From January 1 to June 30 last, Canadians bought $56,180,860 worth of new passenger motor cars, representing an increase of 23.9 per cent over the total for the corresponding six months of 1934; and, $10,948,735 worth of new trucks and busses, an increase of 57.9 per cent. There may be significance for the west in the fact that the highest percentage of gains were in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the hardest hit part of Canada, as of three and four years ago. During the first half-year these two provinces showed increases of 37.5 and 44 per cent, respectively, in passenger car sales, and 114.2 and 111.2 per cent, respectively, in truck and bus sales. Alberta was fourth among the provinces of Canada with a 31.6 per cent gain in passenger car sales and 73.5 per cent gain in trucks and busses. Such figures would seem to be evidence that the three prairie provinces are not only coming through the great financial blizzard, but are already brushing off the dust. British Columbia made the third best showing with a total of $3,486,502 in new car purchases, an increase of 34.3 per cent, and $1,038,696 in new trucks and busses, a 62.5 per cent gain. All through the west the percentage gains for the period were much higher than for the east, the figures for Ontario being 23.9 and 52.8; for Quebec 21.7 and 49.4; and for the Maritimes 1.4 and 46.5.

Our concern for the future must be less marred, when we can come around to the point where we feel that the old "bus" is no longer quite good enough, and more definitely, when we find the family bank account has expanded sufficiently to permit of the payment the motor dealer demands on a new car.

SECTION 98

WE ARE TOLD BY A CONTEMPORARY that "those people who advocate the repeal of Section 98 of the Criminal Code of Canada take good care not to be specific in their argument." The Times does not acknowledge this soft impeachment. This newspaper said on August 5 that "Section 98 of the Criminal Code of Canada was a sequel to the Winnipeg strike in 1919 and it was enacted by the Meighen government in 1920. It was opposed, of course, by the Liberal party for the reason that it restricted freedom of thought and speech and, in a general way, ran contrary to democracy as recognized in British countries. Clause 2 of the Section, for example, reads as follows:

"Any property, real or personal, belonging or suspected to belong to an unlawful association, or held or suspected to be held by any person for or on behalf thereof may, without warrant, be seized or taken possession of by any person thereunto authorized by the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and may thereupon be forfeited to His Majesty."

Then take Section 4—"In any prosecution under this section, if it be proved that the person charged has

- (a) attended meetings of an unlawful association; or
- (b) spoken publicly in advocacy of an unlawful association; or
- (c) distributed literature of an unlawful association by circulation through the Post Office mails of Canada, or otherwise; it shall be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that he is a member of such unlawful association."

It is fitting to observe the word "suspected" in Clause 2. If this means anything at all, it means that a suspect must be considered guilty until he has proved himself innocent. The administration of justice in British countries, summed up, is that a person suspected of some form of wrong-doing must be considered innocent until he or she has been proven guilty. Section 98 of the Criminal Code of Canada codifies a suspected person as guilty before he or she has had a chance of proving otherwise.

A law-abiding citizen of Canada may attend a meeting of what Section 98 considers "an unlawful association" merely for the purpose of gleaning information about what is going on in the country. (We are still quoting from our editorial of August 5.) Any officer may consider this person a suspect who may not be able, on the spur of the moment, to convince the authorities. To all intents and purposes, however, "his or her property may be seized and thereupon be forfeited to His Majesty." The well-known tolerance of His Majesty must cause him to smile if he ever peruses Section 98 of the Criminal Code of Canada.

We have quoted from our issue of August 5 because the editorial in question has been called to account. If citizens of Victoria will take the trouble to refer to the Revised Statutes of Canada, Chapter 36, Part Two, they will find that Section 4 is what has been set out above.

SELFISHNESS

This life can be a sordid thing;
Or that there is no doubt,
If man lets every hurt and sting
Drive all that's pleasant out.

If man seeks only coins of gold
And reckons good and bad
By trinkets which are bought and sold
Then truly life is sad.

If nothing matters more than ease,
And selfish hopes come true,
Then life is freighted with disease
And shot with horrors through.

If man throughout his term of years
Counts only loss and gain,
Then very bitter are his tears
And very sharp his pain.

But if man with a kinder eye
Shall daily look about,
Life will uncounted joys supply
Which selfishness shuts out.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

I WONDER

What has my room to talk about,
Those hours when I have hurried out
Into the world of work and play,
I wonder what the four walls say?

They know me better than my friends
And I believe their silence ends
In chatter swift and unafraid,
When echoes of my footsteps fade.

They know me well, for they have heard
The unchecked sigh, the poignant word
Which from my lips unguarded fell;
Have seen my tears, they know me well.

These walls have watched when triumph came
And joy leaped in me like a flame;
Have, inarticulate, looked on
At heartbreak in a summer dawn.
They are so old and there have been
So many dwellers, here within,
They must have learned to share in part
With all the moods of any heart.

A THOUGHT

Terrors shall make him afraid on every side, and shall drive him to his feet.—Job xviii 11.
Fear on guilt attends, and deeds of darkness; the virtuous breast never knows it.—Havard.

Loose Ends

Mr. Smith of Victoria, B.C., made a bad mistake when he listened to Dr. Cornish of Berkeley, Cal. — And there wasn't much he could do about it—After a thousand years in the ice-box.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MONKEY

HAVING frozen a monkey in a solid block of ice and revived him again, Dr. Robert E. Cornish of Berkeley, Cal., announces it is now possible to freeze a man in the same fashion, with certain chemical precautions, lay him away in refrigeration for a thousand years and let him wake up then and resume life where he left off. This offers interesting possibilities to those who are getting tired of the depression. At the rate they are delaying the poll, it might be a good idea, too, if you were to get yourself frozen for a century or two so that you could wake up on the eve of the next federal election.

Anyway, in the year 2985, Mr. John Smith of Victoria, B.C., felt himself thawing out of the block of ice into which he had been placed in the late summer of 1935 because, being a loyal Conservative, he wished to avoid the spectacle of the autumn election.

The first thing that Mr. Smith said on waking up was: "Well, what happened to Plunkett?"

The curious-looking fellows who had thawed Mr. Smith out looked at each other with surprise.

"Who is Plunkett?" said the oldest of them, a man with a long white beard, who wore no clothes but was kept warm, like all the people of that time, with a tiny electrical apparatus suspended from one ear.

"Who is Plunkett?" said Mr. Smith. "You live here in Victoria and don't know Plunkett? Say, maybe you've never heard of Bennett even?"

"No, I regret that we haven't," said the old man.

Fortunately, among the group was a "red herring" of that period. "He is referring," said the historian, "to a local chief of some tribe which used to roam this country a thousand years ago. They were so primitive that they had to absorb large quantities of dead animals and vegetable matter to nourish themselves."

ANCIENT CITY

TELL ME," said Mr. Smith impatiently, "what happened to dear old Jack Hart and George Warren and Ross Johnson and Chief Heatley and Cadborosaurus?"

Even the historian couldn't answer that one. But he told his friends that the land they were standing on had once been a thriving settlement among the sub-men of the twentieth century.

"You may recall," said the historian, "that some 500 years ago excavations at the southern end of this island revealed the remains of a considerable stone structure with the metal image of a man called Captain Vandover or Vancouver or some such name, laying prone in the jungle. Another still more primitive race had lived on top of the remains of the previous people. We could tell that by the thick layers of clam shells and human bones over the statue of Vandover."

PRIMITIVE PEOPLE

THIS IS awful," said Mr. Smith. "You fellows don't seem to know anything. At least you can tell me what happened about unemployment and work and wages?"

"Work and wages" said the old man with the beard. "What are they?"

"This poor fellow," said the learned historian, "comes from a period when the sub-men had to exert themselves by various processes of brain and muscle, to make a living."

"You mean," said the old man, "they hadn't any machines to do the work for them?"

"Oh, sure, we had machines," Mr. Smith protested. "Only the more we had the more work we had to do, and the more people starved, and the more goods we had the worse the depression got."

"Poor creatures," said the old man, "our cats and dogs evidently have a superior intelligence."

"There is good reason to believe," said the historian, "that the whole race at that period was insane." "That's not true," Mr. Smith protested. "We did have a lot of insanity, but we always locked the insane up." "Possibly," said the old man, "you locked up the wrong ones and let the insane ones loose."

RICH HUE

ANYWAY, what happened about Ethiopia?" Mr. Smith said. "It was all set to blow up when I went to sleep."

"Ethiopia?" said the old man. "I never heard of Ethiopia. I suppose it was one of those old-fashioned cars that ran on wheels."

"You see," said the historian said, "in that period the sub-men were divided up into various sections and groups, called nations. It was a word they had. And they actually varied in color. That was before all the various groups were merged, the white, the black and the yellow. As you know, the black and yellow color predominated, giving us our present rich hue."

"Goah," said Mr. Smith, "you mean to tell me Mussolini got absorbed by Ethiopia?"

"Mussolini?" said the historian.

"Oh, yes, as I recall the incident, Mussolini escaped on a submarine and ended his life as a clown in what they called the movies in a place called Hollywood. They say he was the funniest clown of that period. Except for a fellow called Hitler, who became famous as a Jewish comedian."

But in those days, of course, the sub-men's perceptions were crude. Their entertainment dealt largely with love and sex problems."

"Dear me," said the old man. "Fancy that. Why, let me see, we abolished love and sex nearly 600 years ago near August. I recall the ordinance well. That was the year before we abolished death."

YOU'RE NOT kidding me?" said Mr. Smith. "You mean to tell me you've abolished death and love and sex? Say, how do you live anyway? Do you do any work, or what?"

"We ceased to work 700 years ago," said the historian. "The machines do it all now. And nourishment, of course, is supplied automatically by remote control through ultra-violet rays from our studio on the sun."

"If you don't work, you must have to take a lot of exercise, I suppose," said Mr. Smith.

"Oh, no," said the old man. "Exercise is dangerous. We had to abolish that with death. We never take any exercise. Neither physical or mental. It's dangerous, you know. Besides, all our ideas as well as our nourishment, are provided by the machines. That makes them uniform and safe."

"What do you do, then?" said Mr. Smith.

"We just live," said the old man wearily. "We just sit and contemplate the infinite, but generally we don't even contemplate. It is an unnecessary strain on the brain and people have been known to die from it, even under our system."

"I should think they would want to," said Mr. Smith.

"Quite right," said the old man. "We have had a distressing increase in the suicide rate. People just go and kill themselves by turning off their energy switch. Then we have to replace them by creating some new people."

"They tell me in your time creating people was a considerable inconvenience," said the historian, "but we abolished that long ago. We make them in laboratories now by the gross and on three simple models to keep down costs. It is essential, you realize, to have a standard product in order to maintain a planned economy and a perfect state. I may say that we are thinking of changing the model. It's shortly because they are inclined to be a little impatient and some have actually suggested doing something."

ABSURD IDEA

CAN YOU imagine anything more absurd?" said the old man. "Actually wanting to do something when one can live for a million years simply by sitting still and doing nothing? Some people don't appreciate how lucky they are, but they would, if they could see this poor creature from the twentieth century."

"If you boys don't mind," said Mr. Smith of Victoria, B.C., "I wish you'd freeze me up for another thousand years. Maybe by that time the world will have lost its civilization and got back to the good old days of barbarism. I'm used to them. I don't think I could ever get civilized. Goah, I'd sure give a lot for a good beefsteak and a look at Marie Dietrich in the movies and the sight of those dear old traffic lights on Douglas Street." So they froze Mr. Smith up again and put him away in the refrigerator.

MR. STEVENS AND THE BANKS

To the Editor:—On August 4, in Victoria, B.C., the Canadian Press reported that Hon. H. H. Stevens severely censured the banks for buying government bonds instead of increasing their loans to business and other enterprises. He is reported to have said that the banks "are supposed to supply the lifeblood of Canadian commerce."

In his approach to banking, Mr. Stevens differs from the 2,000,000 Canadians who, like myself, have their savings largely invested in bank accounts. For depositors, who must outnumber borrowers by a 1,000 to 1, the prime duty of the banks is to safeguard the funds of the depositors. It is, I believe, peculiarly significant that at the time when Mr. Stevens suggests that my savings bank account be used to finance industry, many of the corporations which are operating profitably cannot find a use in their own businesses for their surplus funds. In short, the reason for the decline in commercial loans is that profitable markets are not available to industry.

There are many reasons why my bank manager wishes to make commercial loans. He pays me 2 per cent on my account, yet short-term government securities yield him as little as 1½ per cent. If Mr. Stevens is correct, then the banks must be losing money on a large proportion of their deposit business.

Viewed also in their larger social implications, the policies of the banks seem sound—at least from the viewpoint of the majority of the population. In a period of recovery, the banks can best safeguard the deposit and encourage trade by the purchase of high-grade securities. The demand from the banks and other institutions has forced the price of prime securities to the highest level in history. Yields are lower than ever before. This forces money into other channels. Already there has been a noticeable revival in mortgage lending; some construction has begun; and the low price of long-term money must produce industrial expansion. Projects, un-sound when money costs 7 or even 8 per cent, are frequently economic when rates drop to 5 and 6 per cent. It is not intended here to make a case for the bankers. They are human and, therefore, fallible—as is Mr. Stevens. But in these times should politicians force banks to make questionable commercial loans, then bank depositors, like myself, would naturally have heard currency, a development leading inevitably to disaster here, just as it did in the United States. The banking system is sound in Canada, because depositors realize our bankers will not make questionable commercial loans.

May I thank you, Sir, for permitting me thus to express views which are widely held, but seldom voiced.

PHILATELIST ISLAND GUEST

Ross O'Shaughnessy, California, Famous Stamp Collector, on Visit Here

A frequent visitor to Victoria, Ross O'Shaughnessy of San Francisco, accompanied by his sister, Miss Kathryn O'Shaughnessy, was a recent guest at Sooke Harbor House and is now on one of his periodical tours around the island, where he contemplates making his home in the near future.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy, being a noted philatelist, has found an outlet for his interest in Vancouver Island by collecting rare stamps of the island and has recently acquired a very fine specimen of the rare five-cent Vancouver Island stamp of 1850, perforated, which has been in possession of a Scotch lady in California for a number of years, the letter carrying the stamp having been posted in Victoria for San Francisco in the early fifties of the last century.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy, a life member of the American Philatelic Society and an honorary member of the Irish Philatelic Society, is considering a request to exchange a collection of rare stamps in Victoria.

SUPERVISOR FOR CITY WORKS ASKED

A special supervisor, working with or under the direction of the city building inspector's department, should be placed in charge of the supervising work being done by the order of the City Council or the school board, according to a letter received from the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

The letter, received at the City Hall today, read as follows:

"At our last meeting the matter of the supervising of construction and repair work being done by the City Council and the school board was discussed.

"And we would suggest that a competent person working with or under the direction of the building inspector's department, should be placed in charge of the supervising of all such work."

The letter was signed by the secretary of the organization, James Wilson.

RIALING Washington, D.C., in scenic charm, Canberra (accent on first syllable) is fast becoming Australia's most beautiful city. A little more than 100 years ago, this artificial capital was a mere hut, headquarters for a sheep station, and had a white population of less than ten.

In 1901, plans for the new capital began taking form, for the first day of that year marked the beginning of the Australian Commonwealth, and the country's constitution called for the formation of a capital city.

A Chicagoan, Walter B. Griffin, won a world-wide contest for the city's plans, and what was first believed to be "Australia's White Elephant," now promises to become a model garden city and government centre.

Australia celebrated completion of its parliament buildings in 1927, and issued the stamp shown here, to mark the event.

Don't trust to LUCK

Advertising Bill Of $340,000,000

Lord Luke, chairman of Bovril Limited, speaking recently to the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris said:

"Advertising is one of the most economical as well as one of the most effective means of obtaining adequate distribution."

He declared Great Britain spends about $340,000,000 annually on advertising, a sum which he estimated to be 3 per cent of the total retail trade and considerably less than 10 per cent of the total cost of distribution.

TRAVEL HERE BY CARAVAN

Visitors From South Pasadena to Build Summer Home Near City

After seven weeks of travel in their well-equipped caravan to a number of cities in the United States and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Perrin and son, John Robin, of South Pasadena, California, have arrived in Victoria on a three-weeks' visit.

Mr. Perrin in an interview with a Victoria Times reporter stated that their reason for coming to Victoria was to pick out a few acres for a summer camp.

Victoria's scenic beauty, good roads, the friendliness of the people were commended by Mr. Perrin.

Their caravan is equipped with all modern conveniences. It includes a double bed, bunk, sink, toilet, table gas stove, electric light, wardrobe locker, and a twenty-gallon water tank.

The floor is laid with linoleum. There are no windows, but there is a mosquito-proof wire netting in place of windows. In the event of rain there are curtains equipped with sippers, which are waterproof.

Mr. Perrin believes that he will be able to find a suitable site for a summer camp between Duncan and Victoria.

They intend to have a collapsible boat, which is now being manufactured in the United States, inserted into a place under the caravan.

Before reaching Victoria visits were paid to Portland, Seattle, Spokane, Banff, Lake Louise, Golden, Vancouver and Campbell River.

YOUNG LIBERAL PRESIDENTS MEET

A meeting of the presidents of Twentieth Century Liberal Clubs on Vancouver Island was held at Sidney on Saturday to examine resolutions received from club members for the executive rally to be held in Duncan on Saturday next.

The resolution committee dealt with approximately thirty-five resolutions from the clubs concerned.

Present were the following presidents: S. Hill of Sidney; Colin Moust of The Islands; W. P. Lawson of Victoria; Murray Reynolds of Nanaimo; L. Butler, vice-president; Henry Robinson of Central Saanich and F. Alexander of South Saanich.

Sessions at Duncan will commence at 3 p.m. Saturday and after adjournment a banquet will be tendered delegates by the Nanaimo Federal Liberal Association.

MOVE OFFICES IN CITY HALL

After months of preliminary work, reorganization of offices in City Hall got under way in earnest yesterday as the comptroller-treasurer's department left the overcrowded ground floor quarters for new rooms in the upstairs of the building.

The room shared by the comptroller-treasurer and the assessor-collector staffs will be used by the latter only.

D. A. MacDonald, city-comptroller-treasurer, will occupy an airy new office on the first floor, adjacent to that of his department. His former office on the ground floor will be used either as a committee room or by the purchasing agent, who is now in possession of the committee room.

WILL ENCOURAGE PIG BREEDING

British Columbia has a shortage of pigs and a surplus of pig food. Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture said yesterday.

To assist in bringing the two together, the government will make a grant of $500 to the B.C. Swinebreeders' Association to finance a field man who will encourage farmers to secure brood sows from provincial government farms and use their surplus milk, he said.

At Salmon Arm, as much as a ton of buttermilk a day is being dumped out where it could be used for feeding hogs.

Attempts to bring in outside stock have not proved very successful.

PENDER ISLAND

Guests at Welcome Bay Inn and camp this past week included Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Green and Miss Peggy Green of Vancouver, Mrs. Syson and daughter, Daphne, and Madame Sanderson-Mongin of Victoria.

Miss Bunt Wright of Victoria, who is spending a holiday at Browning Harbor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wright, celebrated her eighth birthday on Monday last at a party at the summer home of Mrs. Geo. E. Norris, also of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Armstrong and two children of Victoria are guests of Mrs. Florrie Auchterlonie, Hope Bay.

HOTELS DOING MORE BUSINESS

August Travel Expected to Reach New High For Local Tourist Houses

Increased business among Victoria hotels was reported by two managers here yesterday and indications were that travel this month would reach a new high in the city.

J. K. Hodges, at the Empress, stated July and August had been far above last year and there was every prospect of the increase being more pronounced this month. In round figures he estimated the hotel had handled about 10,000 travelers in the last two months.

Recent conventions and tournaments had served to attract a fair share of the visitors, he said.

After a comparatively slow June and July, business had picked up considerably to reach a high point for the year last week, according to L. Thompson, of the Strathcona Hotel.

The recent law bowling tournament has proved one of the most successful visitor magnets to that hotel, Mr. Thompson reported, while the general flow of tourists to this city during the week helped to keep the house full.

While one or two visitors registered at present are from distant points, the majority of guests are from the surrounding cities of Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma and up-Island points.

The increased volume of traffic appeared to be continuing, from early registrations this week.

Wins Award In Coach Building

With an opportunity to win a cash award, Cyril Pecknold, sixteen-year-old son of Police Chief and Mrs. H. W. Pecknold, 141 Lamson Street, Esquimalt, will attend the international convention of the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild, according to word reaching here to-day.

Cyril's model coach was among the eight best in Canada, the judging having been recently completed. He has received an award but is uncertain just which one it is.

This is following in the footsteps of his elder brother, Carson, eighteen, who this year is taking part in the senior section of the coach-building competition after winning the junior championship of B.C. three years ago. Cyril is entered in the junior division. The convention which Cyril will attend will be held on August 21 in Quebec.

For his achievement in the model building field Carson received a trip to the World's Fair in Chicago.

The noticeable increase early this year in the number of inquiries being received by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau from the majority of people enjoying small or large fixed incomes, who are considering coming to reside in Victoria or the suburbs, has continued. From these indications it would appear that in the near future there is likely to be a revival in home building in this city. The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau states

MANN-WILSON

Vancouver, Aug. 13.—Gladioli in colorful quantities against a background of palms, decorated Canadian Memorial Chapel Saturday evening for the 7 o'clock wedding of Helen Dorothy, only daughter of Mrs. Maud Wilson and the late James J. Wilson, and Mr. Bernard Dean Mann, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mann, West Fifth Avenue.

Rev. Gordon Dickie officiated at the service, at which the bride was attended by two charming bridesmaids, Miss Irene Palmer of Victoria and Miss Sybil Quinn of Comox, and the groom by his brother, Mr. Vernon Mann.

Exalted to the altar and given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. M. Palmer, the bride wore a beautiful gown of white silk lace, posed over gleaming satin, and cut on princess lines. Flared inserts of silk net adding fullness to the skirt. The dress buttoned at the back from neck to waistline and had long, tight-fitting sleeves. With it she wore a veil of imported Brussels lace with Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls and a cluster of orange blossoms holding the veil in place at the back of the head. Her bouquet was composed of Ophelia roses and pink carnations.

Both bridesmaids were attired alike, wearing becoming frocks of buttercup silk net over taffeta. Made shirt-waist style with peplums at the waist and pleating on neck and shoulders down to the short sleeves. The dresses were worn with muffs of jade green on which were imposed corsage bouquets of carnations and sweet peas. Their crowns were of yellow taffeta, worn off the face, and they wore long mittens of matching net.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Robert Palmer, uncle of the bride, sang "Until." The wedding guests were ushered in by Mr. Harold Hart and Mr. Jack Prescott.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. T. Cliffe, where Mrs. J. J. Wilson and Mrs. A. R. Mann, assisted the wedding group in receiving the guests. WOMEN RUN IN ALBERTA

Parties Name Five Feminine
Candidates For Provincial Election August 22

Canadian Press
Calgary, Aug. 13.—The next Alberta Legislature will have five feminine members if the women candidates nominated yesterday for the August 22 elections are successful at the polls.

Alberta's newest political party, the Social Credit League, has five women candidates; the Conservatives and Liberals one each, and one is a nominee of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

An organizer for the Social Credit League, Mrs. W. W. Rogers, is a candidate in Ponoka, home constituency of Hon. J. E. Brownlee, former Premier, who seeks re-election there. A former school teacher and bank worker, Mrs. Rogers has campaigned throughout the province. She has been one of the chief aides of William Aberhart, the League leader.

Another prominent member of the league, Mrs. F. Gostick, a department-store staff member, is a nominee in Calgary.

HAS MONS STAR

A war-time Red Cross worker who wears the Mons star of 1915, Mrs. T. D. Fitzsimon, LL.B., a Conservative candidate in Edmonton, left a rural school to serve overseas during hostilities. Returning to Edmonton in 1919, Mrs. Fitzsimon studied law at the University of Alberta, graduating in 1926. She is a member of her husband's law firm.

The Liberals' lone woman candidate, Mrs. Marion Conroy, who is contesting in Edmonton west, is campaigning on a "home and family" programme, with special interest in the training of the young. She advocates special training for girls to fit them for marriage.

Miss Elsie Wright, C.C.F. nominee in Edmonton, and the only candidate in the province under that banner, is a teacher at Eastwood Public School. Leader in the Economic Reconstruction Association, she was nominated in that organization's civic slate at the Edmonton city election last fall, but withdrew.

New York Stylist Decries
Canary Yellow Dinner Vests and Blue Derbies

Associated Press
New York, Aug. 13.—A well-dressed man this fall can wear a blue derby.

He can flaunt beneath his dinner coat a canary yellow "fun vest," or go to the office in a suit with a six-inch "window-pane plaid."

He can drink champagne in a special champagne coat and choose its colors from fifteen shades. He can get married in a midnight blue cut-away with blue striped trousers and a blue high hat, and sail to Bermuda in an old rose shirt and brown shoes with tan buttoned tops.

There are, in fact, no limits for the well-dressed man this fall, according to a stylist (Ray Twyeffort) who has a left-wing urge for color.

FLED FROM CARNIVAL

Sharpsville, Pa., Aug. 13.—Steven Ephraim, fifteen, did not run away from home to join a carnival. He ran away to get away from the carnival his parents own, and to see the world. Police found him two miles away.

DIPLOMACY MAN-SIZED JOB BUT WOMAN SUITED TO IT

she feels at home no matter whether she is called on to entertain 300 guests or join in a diplomatic conference. This study of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Minister to Denmark and America's only woman envoy to foreign lands, reveals her on the balcony of the Legation in Copenhagen.

By HELEN M. ALLYN

Copenhagen.—Many a woman can be either a business or social success, but it takes a lady diplomat to combine the two.

And so, when Mme. Minister Ruth Bryan Owen sailed August 10 for her 1935 leave of absence in United States, she looked back on two years of dinners, dances and receptions, yet she will not forget the offices of the Legation. The business of being a diplomat carries with it regular working hours.

Americans in Copenhagen can call at the U. S. Legation any time between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. and usually find the minister "in." It is only on rare occasions that Mrs. Owen takes time out of her office routine even for luncheon.

When I called on Mme. Minister, she was busy looking over trade agreements between the United States and Denmark. Her desk was piled high with official-looking documents and her telephone kept ringing on the average of once every five minutes.

On her current social calendar were plans for the entertainment of one admiral, two captains, 100 officers and 800 midshipmen of the U.S. Navy who were due to anchor off Copenhagen within a week.

She had just returned from the annual celebration of 15,000 Americans, Danish-Americans, and interested Danes, held every year at Rebild National Park on the island of Jutland.

En route, she had spent a day at Kolding, where she officiated at the opening of a bazaar marking the thirtieth anniversary of the National Federation of Danish Women. In course of two days she had made three speeches, given a radio broadcast, and attended two luncheons, two teas and two banquets.

Is it any wonder the Madame laughed and said, "No, this business of diplomacy is never dull. I have no typical days. I never know what will happen next week."

In spite of the heavy demands on her time, however, there appears to be little flurry either at the Legation offices near the Royal Palace or at the official residence ten minutes' drive away at 20-A Kastels Vej.

Everyone from the office clerk to the Swedish cook swears that the present Minister knows how to keep things smoothly at both home and office.

GUESTS MAY NUMBER 300

The average guest list at a dance followed by supper at the Legation is 175, Mme. Minister said. At informal receptions held in the garden as many as 300 guests attend.

Who is invited depends, as in all social instances, on the type of occasion. When the midshipmen dance at her home, daughters and friends of the Danish admiralty and American girls living in Copenhagen assist the Minister as hostesses.

One of these girls is the Minister's own daughter, Helen, who is spending her vacation from Spence School with her mother at the Legation.

The Minister's residence here is more than an official setting for diplomatic affairs. It is a gracious home where the United States meets Denmark in customs, language, furnishings and food and find each other both charming and interesting.

DECORATIONS PORTRAY AMERICA
Through pictures she has hung on the walls of the Legation, the Minister has succeeded in introducing the United States to Danish and foreign visitors. In the reception room, early at her home, guests arrive at the Legation. On opposite walls of the large, formal drawing-room are land-scapes showing the extremes of American climate.

Leading the way into the dining-room, Mrs. Bryan said, "And it is here that many foreign diplomats have had their first impression of our capital at Washington."

Covering the windows of this room in an effect of leaded stained glass, are parchment transparencies painted by an American artist. The Capitol, Lincoln's Memorial, Washington's Monument, and the White House all are included in the design, conceived by the Minister.

After a dinner—that would feature United States dishes if the guests were from Denmark or other foreign countries, or Danish specialties if the guests were American—Mme. Minister leads the way to a coffee room furnished in antique chairs covered with fine old Danish needlepoint.

KEEPS GREENLAND MEMENTOS

Another room is a memento of the Minister's recent trip to Greenland. Tiny wooden carvings by the Eskimos are all about the room. A rug made of skins of pure white sled dogs covers the lounge and seaish pillows add to its comfort. Even the lamp-stand in this room is the work of a narwhal.

It was here recently that two-thirds of the feminine diplomats of the world talked over the business of being a diplomat. There are only three and on that occasion it was the Soviet Minister to Stockholm, Madame Alexandra Kollentay, who was the guest of the U.S. Minister. The only other lady diplomat in the world who was not present is Mme. Pamela Aguirre, Mexican Minister to Colombia.

"Had she been here," our own lady Minister said, "I'm sure she would have agreed with us that being a woman is not a handicap to our profession and that it is a business admirably suited to feminine capabilities."

MOTHER SHOULD AID CHILD
WHOSE TOYS GET BEST OF HIM

It invariably angers the mother to see her foolish child dissolve into tears or throw a tantrum when one of his playthings refuses to act as he expected and demands that it should.

"If you wouldn't get so angry, Tommy, you would see that the wagon can't run when it is stuck. Just move it out from behind the leg of the chair."

But Thomas is too mad to listen, too upset to care. When in this mood every obstacle to his success is a personal affront. He can only show his disgust for these pestiferous laythings by throwing them as far as he can and then picking them up and giving them another bang and slam and crack for good measure.

POOR TOMMY!

It is the unusual parent who can view such a spectacle without her own eye rising. But it should not. Poor Tommy is wrestling forces stronger than he. He needs to be helped—not enough to make him increasingly dependent upon the parent—but just enough to show him how to get out of his difficulties. He can even be directed, if he is not too mad to listen to directions.

But the method which will be of no avail is to yell at him and demand that he be patient—or not so silly as not to try to see what is wrong. If he were patient and wise he would have not got into the middle in the first place.

USELESS TOYS

Sometimes the child's toys are useless to him because they are constantly forcing him to meet unconquerable obstacles. The type of building material which only the father can put together satisfactorily only makes a child angry because he feels both helpless and stupid. He hates that type of toy, and will destroy it rather than attempt to play with it.

It is almost useless to try to teach a child how to make a complex toy enjoyable to him. Help in that case is wasted. He needs toys more suited to his present abilities. But when his ordinary toys grow obstreperous, don't scold him, and add fuel to the flames of his wrath, but take the trouble to point out what is wrong and how it can be helped.

ROAD TO PEACE

Our leaflet, "How to Deal With Temper Tantrums," suggests other reasons for these emotional upsets, it may be had by sending a self-addressed and stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

There is nothing so calculated to drive a child to tantrums as to find himself helpless and frustrated by the ordinary objects of his small world. To make him victorious over them is the natural road to peace and amiability.

Hollywood, Aug. 13.—Inactive vocally for many years, Alice Brady, stage and screen actress, to-day was paying the price of trying to capture a "high c."

Miss Brady, singing a number from "Carmen" in a motion picture with Lawrence Tibbett, the opera star, touched a top note. Then her voice cracked.

Dr. Raoul Renard was called. He said Miss Brady had strained her vocal chords.

Pirates of Venus

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
Copyright, 1935

A high sea was still running that would have precluded the landing of a small boat, but we had the angon, and if the Soffal were to draw in to shore, he could easily transport us to her deck one at a time. However, I hesitated to risk Duare in the attempt while the ship was at its present considerable distance from shore, as what wind there was would have been directly in the face of the angon.

From the summit of this cliff we could overlook the cliff on the east side of the canyon, and presently the angon called my attention to something in that direction. "Men are coming," he said.

I saw them immediately, but they were still far away for me to be able to identify them, though even at a distance I was sure that they were not of the same race as the savages which had attacked Duare and the klanagan.

Now indeed it became imperative that we attract the attention of the Soffal immediately, and to that end I built two more fires at intervals from the first, so that it might be obvious to anyone aboard the ship that there was in fact a signal rather than an accidental fire or a camp fire.

Whether or not the Soffal had seen our signal, it was evident that the party of men approaching must have; and I could not but believe that, attracted by it, they were coming to investigate. Constantly they were drawing nearer, and as the minutes passed we saw that they were armed men of the same race as the Soffal. They were still some distance away when we saw the Soffal change her course and point her bow toward shore. Our signal had been seen, and our comrades were coming to investigate; but would they be in time?

For us it was a thrilling race. The wind had sprung up again and the sea was rising once more. I asked the angon if he could breast the gale, for I had determined to send Duare off at once if I received a favorable reply. "I could alone," he said, "but I doubt that I could if I were carrying another."

We watched the Soffal plunging and wallowing in the rising sea as it forged steadily closer, and we watched the men drawing near with equal certainty. There was no doubt in my mind as to which would reach us first: my only hope now was that the Soffal could lessen the distance in the meantime sufficiently so that it would be safe for the angon to attempt to carry Duare to her.

Now the men had reached the summit of the cliff on the opposite side of the canyon, and here they halted and observed us while carrying on a discussion of some nature. "Vitor is with them," exclaimed Duare suddenly.

"And Mooko," I added. "I see them both now."

"What shall we do?" cried Duare. "Oh, they must not get away!"

"They shall not," I promised her. "Down the canyon side they came now. We watched them swim the river and cross to the foot of the cliff where we were standing. We watched the Soffal creeping slowly shoreward. I went to the edge of the cliff and looked down the ascending men. They were half way up now. Then I returned to Duare and said, 'We can wait no longer,' I said, and then to the angon, 'Take the janjag and fly to the ship. She is closer now; you can make it; you must make it!'

He started to obey, but Duare drew away from him. "I will not go," she said quietly. "I will not leave you here alone!"

For those words I would gladly have sacrificed on the part of a woman for the man she loves. I was swept completely from my feet, but only for an instant. The enemy, if such it were, must by now be almost to the summit of the cliff, in a moment they would be upon us, and even as the thought touched my mind, I saw the first of them running toward us.

Comox-Alberni Member Speaks

A. W. Neill Opens Election Campaign at Qualicum

Qualicum Beach, Aug. 13.—A. W. Neill, the Independent federal member for Comox-Alberni, opened his campaign for re-election at Qualicum Beach Saturday night.

Mr. Neill gave a general resume of the political situation, touching on unemployment conditions, the tariff, lumber markets and the amendments to the Franchise Act, in which he explained his own part in advocating the absentee vote for workers in certain industries. He recounted his fight for old age pensions, and dealt with Mr. Bennett's radio reform talks in detail.

He said he was in favor of reciprocity, and lower tariffs, and of practical revision of the B.N.A. Act, to cut down provincial legislatures to fewer members and to readjust the whole field of federal and provincial rights. If provincial governments were to be financed by federal loans, he thought that the federal government should exercise some form of control over the spending of such loans.

He favored a six-hour day, and said he had fought for the adoption of legislation to that end, and C.C.F. members had failed to support him in securing a recorded vote in the House. He favored the lowering of the age for old age pensions from seventy to sixty years, believing that it will be cheaper to pay $20 as a pension than $30 for relief camp expenses, while providing more openings for jobs for younger men by removing them from the labor market.

Dealing with the repeated assertion that he should affiliate with the C.C.F., he quoted six reasons why he cannot consider this suggestion, including the control of sitting members by an executive committee of the party, the divided allegiance of federal members evident in the present parliament, and the C.C.F. attitude on national finance, and other matters.

Fate of "Steel Helmets" Uncertain

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The storm troops, after a year's eclipse, are being reorganized as a quality unit of Nazi defense against the "state enemies" of Semitism and "Political Catholicism."

The fate of the Reich's steel helmets remains uncertain.

That something is going to happen to the steel helmets, whose leader is Franz Seidler, minister of labor, was indicated by publication of the bare announcement that Reichsfuhrer Hitler had discussed their future with Seidler.

The discussion was regarded as highly significant in that the helmets are now held "reactionaries" and "questionable characters," as such they are forbidden to join the stormers of Sturmabteilung, new standard bearers of the Hitler policies.

Victor Lutze is leading the troops, who are rebuilding the organization by eliminating all but "idealistic fighters" for Der Fuehrer.

The house cleaning of the storm troops was ordered a year ago to "purge" it of Communist members. The troops continued to regard themselves as the backbone of National Socialist thought, but their functions were restricted.

NEW CANDIDATES ARE NOMINATED

Federal nominations over the weekend were: Hamilton East, Humphrey Mitchell, Independent-Labor; York-Sudbury, W. G. Clark, Liberal; Beauharnois-Laprairie, Maxime Raymond, Liberal; Compton, Sam Gobeil, Conservative; Lambton West, Franklin J. Miller, Reconstruction; Stormont, Lionel Chevrier, Liberal; Charlevoix-Saguenay, Henri D'Auteuil, Conservative.

TEST CASE IN UNION FIGHT

Washington, Aug. 13.—Rejecting last-minute compromise suggestions, the Roosevelt administration determined yesterday to make a test case of the union fight in New York against the new deal's wage scale for work progress projects.

Officials watched incoming reports with interest to see how many of the 15,000 union men employed on relief construction in the metropolis had joined the "strike" movement.

Disease Makes Horses Reel

Mysterious Equine Malady Spreads From Manitoba to Saskatchewan; Transmitted by Mosquitoes

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Aug. 13.—Apprehension for safety of their horses mounted among western Canada's farmers today as Encephalomyelitis, a mysterious equine disease, was reported spreading from Manitoba into Saskatchewan.

Striking the brain and spinal column of the animals, the disease sends horses reeling drunkenly. Then they collapse, and in most cases death results.

So far there has been no accurate count of the death toll among farm animals but it is known to be over 100 in Manitoba alone. Near Weyburn in Saskatchewan thirty-six horses have been reported dead and farmers near Yorkton and Moose Jaw have sent out calls for serum to combat the disease.

Other points in northern Saskatchewan reported horses had been affected by the disease which is believed to be transmitted by mosquitoes.

The only serum which successfully offsets the disease is obtainable in limited quantities from New York. The malady first appeared in southwestern Manitoba and rapidly spread throughout the province and then westward.

ISLAND MINE IS REOPENED

Canadian Press
Cumberland, Aug. 13.—Operations were resumed at No. 5 mine of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir), Ltd., here yesterday evening, following agreement between company officials and some 500 employees. The mine was ordered closed last Tuesday after officials charged employees had violated their agreement with the company.

The men had called a holiday to discuss the contract system of operation proposed by the company, which had been turned down earlier by a majority of the employees.

When the men walked out, the company posted a notice of discontinuance of operations at the mine and ordered the men to remove their tools from the colliery, stating it was a breach of the agreement and that the second occasion upon which employees had walked out without permission.

Company officials refused to give out details of the agreement under which the mine was reopened.

YOUTH SAVED AT ELK LAKE

An unidentified youth was saved from drowning in Elk Lake on Sunday afternoon, when his calls for help were heard by John Donald, 1534 Elford Street, who pulled him to safety in his rowboat.

The youth was paddling in a canoe when it upset in the middle of the lake. Mr. Donald was fishing nearby and towed to the boy's assistance when he heard him shouting. He took both boy and canoe to safety.

The accident, Mr. Donald said, demonstrated the need for a lifeboat at the lake. He thought it should be placed in a convenient position, ready at all times for an emergency call, to be manned by anyone nearby.

Local Team Named For Provincial Track Championships

THE SPORTS MIRROR

ON THE showings so far, British Columbia entrants have a wonderful chance of walking away with the major share of the pot in the "Long-acre mile" at the Renton track on August 24.

Victoria, quite naturally, will be pulling for the wonder colt goldstream to display his heels to the crack bunch of thorough-breds liable to face the barrier in this event, the greatest horse race ever held in the Pacific Northwest. After the Simony colt's performance last Sunday, when he took the measure of Frank Lanni's famous bluff at six furlongs his stock for the big race went up a couple of more notches. And when you consider that his weight allowance to lift for the Long-acre event gives him a five-pound drag over last Sunday's chances look even better. However, Goldstream has never won at more than six furlongs outside of his easy win in the British Columbia Hurry On Handicap when he had no opposition to talk about, so has yet to demonstrate his worth at the longer distances.

The sparkling performance of Austin Taylor's two stars, Bonny Grafton and Bye Lo, in the Leighton Memorial at Vancouver Saturday place this pair into top rank as contenders for the Long-acre event. Bonny Grafton, winning the mainland feature, travelled a mile and sixteenth in 1:43.4-5 with Bye Lo just a head behind. They passed the mile mark in 1:38. When you take into account that Long-acre track is figured almost a second faster than Land-downs under normal conditions, the time this pair will put down at Renton will take some heating.

Handicapped on the weights, Bye Lo is slated to receive eight pounds from Bonny Grafton and, off the Leighton, figures to beat her in the Long-acre event. She took only three pounds from her stablemate Saturday.

While we are discussing these it's and butts don't overlook the speedster from Jacques' prairie stable, little Joey. Just look over the dope on the Leighton memorial and you find that Joey, giving Bonny Grafton three pounds, was beaten less than a length. And he is slated to take two pounds from her on August 24 which would put him on top. He gave Bye Lo six pounds also in the Leighton and concedes her a similar allowance at Long-acre. Bye Lo has beaten Joey twice now, one taking ten pounds and one taking six.

John Gormley has done a nice job of training the Taylor stars to get them in tip-top shape for the Renton event. Particularly with Bonny Grafton. He started her slowly and it was not until a week ago that she really found herself stepped out and cracked three-fifths of a second off the track record for six furlongs at Land-downs. Then she followed up on Saturday by clipping a second and a fifth off the mark for a mile and a sixteenth. Don't forget also that Bonny Grafton holds several marks at the Long-acre track from her performances of last year.

The only other Canadian in the Long-acre mile is Don Grant's Trombone. He's a grand horse but they've had trouble getting him round to winning form and unless he shows surprising improvement is hardly a good choice for the $10,000 purse. Mind you, though, they are letting him in without top weight on once.

Regardless of which is the winner, the race will bring together the finest collection of horseflesh that ever faced a barrier in these parts and the fans are quite sure that a new north-west record for distance will be hung up when it's all over. The Long-acre's Association is to be congratulated on their admirable effort to develop the sport.

Strong Squad Is Picked For Big Meet August 28

Victoria Virtually Assured of Some Titles in Civic Federation Sports

Addison, Cunningham And Dale Favorites

Leading local hopes for provincial track and field championships, which will be decided at the Civic Employees Federation meet at Macdonald Park on August 28, were listed today as Archie McKinnon, coach of the Flying Y team announced his line-up for the different events.

In former years Victoria stars have been successful in annexing several of the British Columbia titles. With the meet in the local park, the city aces should stand an even better chance of taking the majority of the awards than they have in other seasons when team were naturally limited by the cost of traveling.

Joe Addison, Chuck Cunningham and Bill Dale appear as stand-out prospects for the major laurels this year while Paul Rowe and a host of other performers look to have particularly good chances of breaking into the title lists.

The boys are working out regularly on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 8:15 o'clock on the High School grounds, and at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoons on the same field.

In addition to issuing a call for consistent training to his own boys for the big event, McKinnon today renewed his invitation to other aspirants outside the association membership to work out with his performers on the regular practice nights.

McKinnon will pin his field hopes on young Ted Butterworth, who has been tossing the weights and discus in California as well as hurling the javelin, and on Jim Cousins, Malahat schoolboy jumper, and Art Chapman, star in the local field a season or two ago.

Prospects of a particularly classy mainland field to compete against the Victorians may reduce the number of first places the locals will take, but the added number of entries the city will be able to put in will contribute materially to the chances of snatching places in events which, if they had been held outside the capital, would have gone uncontested.

For the half mile McKinnon has lined up two of the best in the province, Chuck Cunningham, former title-holder, and Bill Dale, the fast coming Victoria High School boy who has developed into one of the city's best track prospects in recent years.

Cunningham is also slated for the mile in which Clarence Durbin and Chuck Stevens will also run.

Cousins and Art Chapman are billed for the high jump, while Cousins will also represent the city in the broad event with Ted Butterworth, Paul Rowe and Philippen.

Butterworth has been given the call for discus with Rowe and Bill Thompson. The same men will also try the shot put and the javelin. Chapman may also compete in the shot event.

ADDISON'S EVENTS
Joe Addison appears to be the outstanding bet for the quarter mile and the hurdles. He may be extended by strong Vancouver opposition, but should be able to take both those features.

BIRDMEN WIN OVER CLUBMEN

Eagles Defeat Tillicums 3 to 1 in Senior Baseball League Fixture

Eagles, undefeated leaders in the Senior Baseball League, added another win to their credit yesterday evening at the Athletic Park, when they chalked up a 3 to 1 victory over the Tillicums' squad in a six-inning game.

Jimmy Proudlove was on the mound for the Eagles, while Holmes did the hurrying for the Tillicums.

The Eagles opened the scoring in the third frame by sending a lone runner the distance, but in the fifth frame the Tillicums tied the score. The fifth inning saw the birdmen push two runs across for their margin of victory.

Score by innings—
Eagles 001 020-3
Tillicums 00 100-1
Batteries: Proudlove and Woodford; Holmes and Kinney.

MONTREAL IN BOXING WAR

Montreal, Aug. 13.—A wide-open split between the Montreal Athletic Commission and the two leading United States boxing bodies, the New York State Commission and the National Boxing Association, threatened here yesterday. Word was received that the New York group was attempting to stage a world title bantamweight match between Sixto Escobar, Puerto Rico, and Lou Salica, Pittsburgh.

The Montreal commission last December entered into an agreement with the N.B.A., of which it is a member, and the New York Commission, whereby these bodies would protect the world bantam tourney then under way in Montreal. The two United States groups were to see that no other promoters signed leading bantamweights until the series here was finished.

ESCOBAR BACKS OUT
Lou Brix, manager of Sixto Escobar, recognized as world champion in Montreal, yesterday notified Tommy Gorman, matchmaker for the Forum here, he will be unable to go through with a world title match against Lou Salica here as planned, August 28.

Brix said he is being practically forced to put his fighter into the ring against Salica in New York.
Providence, R.I., Aug. 13.—Action to protect the Montreal Athletic Commission in its dispute for a world title bantamweight boxing match between Sixto Escobar and Lou Salica is not contemplated by the National Boxing Association, President Edward C. Foster said here yesterday evening. Foster asserted that the Montreal Commission had promised to hold such a bout last spring and had neglected to go through with its plans.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

One of the strangest diamonds the world has ever known is the chameleon diamond owned by a Paris jeweler named M. Halphen. Normally a brownish color, it becomes a brilliant rose red when heated. Upon cooling it gradually returns to its original color, yet strange as it seems, it will remain bright red for as long as ten days.

The Himalaya Mountains, mightiest range in the world, run roughly east and west—yet strange as it seems, both north and south slopes drain southward into the same ocean, the Indian Ocean.

The southern slope is drained by a river system that flows into the Ganges River and finally into the Bay of Bengal, which is part of the Indian Ocean. One of the two important river systems on the north receives drainage from the northern slopes, then flows east to skirt the

NAVAL SPORTS HERE TO-MORROW AFTERNOON

Danae and the United States cruiser Salt Lake City, will vie with one another at Macdonald Park to-morrow afternoon, were being completed today. Members of the Y.M.C.A. participating will meet at the association at 1 o'clock to change for the events which will start at 1:30 o'clock.

BRITISH NET TEAM FEARED

Figured to Have Good Chance of Winning Wightman Cup Series

New York, Aug. 13.—The feeling at Forest Hills where the British and United States Wightman Cup teams were practising for their matches on Friday and Saturday is that the British are going to make a great fight this year.

The players were practising on adjoining courts yesterday, and the banner that passed between them would not give one the impression they were preparing for an international tilt. To-day they moved into the stadium and continued their workouts.

Helen Jacobs, America's No. 1 player and three times national champion, was of the opinion that chances were 50-50 that United States would turn back the invaders.

"They are really good this time," she said.

On the other hand, Dorothy Round, the English star, said she was hopeful but parried questions with: "It doesn't do to discuss chances before a match. It might bring bad luck."

The British team will present a line-up taken entirely from the first ten—Miss Round, No. 1; Katherine Stammers, No. 3; Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King, No. 4; Freda James, No. 5; Nancy Lyle, No. 6, and Evelyn Dearman, No. 10.

Brunsdon's Win Softball Play-off

McCarthy-Cronin Each Fined $100

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, and Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, yesterday were fined $100 each by William Harridge, president of the American League, for allowing "stalling" tactics in the New York-Boston game at Boston, August 5.

MICK WALKER IN KNOCKOUT

Former Middleweight Champion Puts Lou Poster Away in Second Round

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—There are still plenty of teeth left in the "Toy Bulldog" from Rumson. Mickey Walker demonstrated that fact yesterday evening by blasting out a two-round knockout win over Lou Foster, Pottstown, Pa., puncher, in the second bout of his comeback campaign.

Of course, the once mighty bulldog, does not fight with the fury of the days when he was tearing through the middleweight ranks, and he is somewhat flabbier now than he was then—but he still can hit.

A sell out crowd of 11,000 fans, largest of the season, saw him whip over a vicious left hand smash—a typical Walker left-hand—that put Foster away for the count in twenty-eight seconds of the second round, despite the fact that Mickey, who scored at 173, gave away ten pounds.

Defeat Silent Glows 7 to 3 to Capture A Section Play-off Three Games to One; Poodle Dog Cafe Eliminate Painter's Bruins in B Section Final

Successful in the senior A schedule, Brunsdon's Boys took another step towards the city championship yesterday evening as they downed Silent Glows 7 to 3 in the fourth game of their A section play-offs yesterday evening while the Poodle Dog Cafe blanked Painter's Bruins 2 to 0 in the final of their B section post schedule series. Brunsdon's won their series three game sto-one.

A Bullen Park Brunsdon's pounded out their seven runs in five innings while the burnermen garnered one tally in each of the second, third and seventh.

"Red" Palmer chalked up his third victory in as many starts for the Brunsdon outfit as the team came through with colors flying in the play-off.

It was a bad night for "Chuck" Turner, Glow's twirler as Brunsdon's got to him for thirteen safeties, including Barnswell's homer and several extra base hits. He tried hard, but Brunsdon's had an on-night and he could not cope with their slugging.

TWO HOME RUNS
Of the six hits the Glows collected from Palmer, two went for four bases from the bats of Jack Okell and Sumner. Bill Levy opened the scoring for Silent Glows when he smacked out a single and continued around in the second frame. "Cabby" Dunnett, Brunsdon's catcher, offset the score in the second half of the innings. Okell's homer put the Glows ahead again in the third, but Brunsdon's came right back and scored twice in their half of the frame. While their opponents went scoreless for the next three innings, Brunsdon's collected four more tallies, one in each fourth and fifth and two in the sixth.

Sumner wound up the run getting with a homer for the burnermen in the seventh and the teams ended the game with the count unchanged.

Score by innings:
Silent Glows .011 000 110-3
Brunsdon's Boys 012 120 00 x-7
Batteries—Turner and Kennedy; Palmer and Dunnett.

A smart pitching performance by Tommy Johnston, who allowed only five hits, and good work in the pinches paved the way for the Poodle Dog Cafe's 2 to 0 shutout against the Bruins at Central Park as the former wound up their senior B play-off series.

Lloyd Simpson was nicked for nine hits by the cafemen.

Both teams turned in smart fielding performances.

Score by innings:
Painter's Bruins 000 000 000-0
Poodle Dog Cafe 010 000 100 x-2
Batteries—L. Simpson and Terry; Johnston and Harris.

Driving over three runs in the fifth frame to take the lead for the first time during the game, Spencers scored a 7 to 3 victory over Hill's Corner in the third game of the play-off series.

Score by innings:
Spencers 100 031 020-7
Hill's Corner 000 021 000 0-0

Two Visiting Players Top Qualifying Round In Seniors' Golf

Dr. O. Wight and Jack Ballinger Tie For Honors

Portland and Seattle Veterans Post 77's: Will Meet in Play-off

Six-Victorians In Grand Flight

Leadership in the eighteen-hole qualifying test of the thirteenth annual tournament of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association which opened yesterday at the Victoria Golf Club was divided between two visiting players, Dr. O. B. Wight, Portland, and Jack Ballinger, Seattle. They both scored 77's.

The co-leaders will meet later this week in a play-off for the medal honors.

Dr. Wight and Ballinger had only a single stroke edge over the other veterans. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, and W. H. Abbott, Bellingham, who shared second place with 78's.

In posting his 77 Wight was out in 36 and back in 41. Ballinger covered the outgoing nine in 39 and took one less stroke on the incoming journey. Hart had nine-hole scores of 38 and 42 and Abbott posted 38 and 40.

Next in line were W. S. Babson, Portland; J. A. Duncan, Seattle, and A. T. Goward, Victoria, who turned in cards of 80.

Joshua Green, Seattle, holder of the grand championship, was next with an 81.

In the grand championship Victoria had six contenders, A. Sheret, A. T. Goward, Hart, L. S. V. York, J. W. Ruggles and J. A. Rithet. Portland and Seattle each had four places. Bellingham one and Tacoma one.

Class A championship saw Victoria qualify five players with a like number, gaining places in class B. In class C two locals made the select group and five gained places in the class D championship.

Secretary J. V. Perks announced yesterday that any of the seniors wishing to attend the annual dinner to-morrow night at the Union Club, and who have not made reservations, are asked to do so at the clubhouse.

CARDS
Leading cards follow:

Lady Byng Presents New Hockey Trophy

Montreal, Aug. 13.—The new Lady Byng Trophy for the cleanest and most valuable player in the National Hockey League has arrived from England and rests in the office of Frank Calder, president of the league.

LOUIS LOOKS FOR KNOCKOUT

Negro Heavyweight Figures He Will Be Able to Put Max Baer Away

Detroit, Aug. 13.—Joe Louis, who says it was "just one of those things" when he missed calling his knockouts of Primo Carnera and King Levinsky by one round each, is going into training before telling the world when he believes he will put Max Baer away next month—but the "Brown Bomber" is none the less confident he can turn that trick.

"If I can hit him, I'll kyo him—and I know I can hit him," Louis drawled yesterday, announcing he would start training for the Baer scrap about August 20 at the site not yet determined.

Joe flashed one of his rare grins when reminded he was off slightly in his previous kyo predictions.

He said he would stop Carnera in the fifth, but finished him in the sixth. He put Levinsky away in the first when he said he would win in the second.

"It's kind of hard to tell, but I try to be close," said Joe. "I know Baer's good, and I hope his hands are in shape, so there'll be no excuses. If they ain't in shape, it's his fault."

SOCCER TEAMS SUSPENDED

Three Alberta Clubs Out For Failure to Take Part in Competition

Calgary, Aug. 13.—The Alberta Football Association yesterday announced indefinite suspension of three Calgary soccer teams—Calles, Hillhurst and C.P.R. members of the Inter-city League.

The teams, after agreeing to enter competition for the Alberta Challenge Cup, emblematic of the provincial title, dropped out, association officials said.

"This is construed as tantamount to conspiracy and prejudicial to the best interests of the A.F.A. and the game at large," an executive statement said.

The suspension means that the clubs will be barred from participating in organized football for the time being.

The A.F.A., which intends to proceed with the Cup competition, has ordered officials of the three teams to produce all correspondence that passed between the League and its member clubs on this subject.

CARDS WIN EXHIBITION

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 13.—The St. Louis Cardinals staged a wild, eight-run rally in the seventh inning here yesterday to defeat the Boston-Red Sox, 9 to 8, in an exhibition game played as a feature of the second annual "Boy Scout Day."

VICTORIOUS BRITISH TENNIS TEAM RECEIVE FAMOUS TROPHY

Successful for the second time in their defense of the eagerly-sought Davis Cup, the huge silver bowl was again presented to the British team at Wimbledon, England, with Princess Helena Victoria doing the honors. Hoper Barrett, non-playing captain of the defenders, holds the cup, flanked by the players who defeated the United States challengers in every match of the challenge round. Left to right are Fred Perry and Bunny Austin, singles stars; Barrett, and the doubles team, G. F. Hughes and C. B. D. Tuckey.

England Will Send Changed Line-up Against South Africa on Saturday

London, Aug. 13.—Another rearrangement of the English cricket team to meet South Africa in the fifth and final test at the Oval next Saturday is planned.

The Springboks hold the upper hand in the series to date with one victory. Three games have been drawn and England may even the count by winning the concluding tussle.

Thirteen players have been invited to hold themselves ready to play and the final selection will depend largely on the weather and the state of the wicket at the famous London enclosure.

The selectors evidently hope that fast bowlers will succeed where experts of the spinning variety have failed in the earlier games. William Bows, Yorkshire, and Morris Nichols and H. D. Read, Essex, are included in the chosen thirteen. They are three of England's fastest bowlers. Read has never before been chosen for international play.

OTHER PLAYERS

R. E. S. Wyatt, Warwickshire, will again captain the team, the other invited players being Cyril Walters, Worcestershire; R. W. V. Robbina, Middlesex; J. C. Clay, Glamorgan; Maurice Leyland, Lancashire; Wilfred Barber, Yorkshire; Walter Hammond, Gloucestershire; Alfred Bakewell, Northamptonshire, and Leslie Ames, Kent.

Denis Smith, Derbyshire, first-wicket batsman; Maurice Tate, veteran Sussex all-rounder; Hedley Verity, Yorkshire slow bowler; and George Duckworth, famous wicket-keeper, were the players who failed to retain their places on the team.

THE BIG SIX

Taking advantage of his rivals' idleness, Arky Vaughan, the Pirates' hard-hitting shortstop, widened the gap in the battle for the major leagues' batting leadership yesterday. He found Cincinnati pitchers for two hits and sent his average up two points to .397.

Predicts Greatest Success For Games

Bill Henry, Los Angeles Sports Editor, Back From Germany, Declares Next Year's Olympiad at Berlin Will Be Outstanding; Unable to Understand Contrary Feelings in U.S.

(The following first-hand analysis of the Olympic Games' outlook represents the views of an United States sports editor, Bill Henry of Los Angeles, who has just returned from a semi-official visit to Germany. Henry was technical director of the 1932 Olympics.)

By BILL HENRY

New York, Aug. 13.—Returning from Europe where everything seems to indicate the greatest success in history for the 1936 Olympic Games, I find it pretty difficult to adjust myself to the perfectly obvious contrary opinion held by a large group of people in the United States.

Everywhere else in the world feverish preparations are going ahead for participation in the 1936 games. The largest number of nations in Olympic history, forty-eight, has entered. The popular demand for admission tickets, evidenced by an advance sale in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, a year ahead of the games, is obviously an indication of their financial success.

GREAT PREPARATIONS

Certainly no country has ever prepared as lavishly or as thoroughly as has Germany whose plans, now nearing completion, are simply staggering in their scope.

In the light of the terrific excitement evidenced by some people in the United States, the whole situation doesn't seem to add up and make sense.

The answer, of course, is very simple. Other nations recognize that political, racial and religious questions to not belong in a discussion involving the Olympic Games. The gentlemen charged with the responsibility of presenting the ideals of the Olympic Games, the International Olympic Committee, represent a wide variety of nations and are not only zealous champions of the Olympic ideals but are quite representative of world thought.

Their president, Count Baillet-Latour, is a Belgian. The founder and life president of the Olympic Games, Baron de Coubertin, is a Frenchman. Both Jewish and Catholic faiths are strongly represented in the Olympic committee membership.

Yet they, being what they are and where they are, and obviously more interested far better informed than anyone in this country, enthusiastically urge participation in the games and predict their outstanding success.

The attitude of the people of the United States towards matters of religious freedom and racial equality is too well known to require any emphasis, such as some people seem to believe would be given by the refusal of the United States to participate in the games. On the contrary, refusal to participate would result in loss of American athletic prestige.

counting chiefly on Virginia Hall, slender young sprinter; Zoe Richards, Margaret Dewhurst, Mickey Waite and others to carry the Capital's banner.

Those entries are outside the local group which will seek honors in the events closed to civic employees and their families. Among the latter group a big field is expected from the police and fire departments and the City Hall inside and outdoor staffs.

Recent developments in arrangements for the meet to-day indicated a big piping contest for artists of the Scottish national instrument would add color to the day.

Bahram Suffering From Cough To-day

Newmarket, Eng., Aug. 13.—The Aga Khan's colt Bahram, winner of the Derby and hot favorite for next month's classic St. Leger, was found coughing after a light exercise on the Heath to-day and was sent back to his stable. Some uncertainty surrounded the colt's condition but he was not believed to be seriously out of shape.

Record Entry For U.S. Amateur Golf

New York, Aug. 13.—Exceeding last year's field by nearly 150, a record entry list of more than 900 players will compete in twenty-nine sectional qualifying tests for the right to play in the United States amateur golf championship, John G. Jackson, chairman of the championship committee, announced yesterday. The championship proper will be played at Cleveland, starting September 9.

Play was to get underway in three sections to-day with the Los Angeles, San Francisco and Denver districts getting a week's jump on the rest of the field.

Wally Berger Is Performing Nobly

Fence Busting Outfielder of Boston Braves Continues Brilliant Work Despite Weakness of Club; Pittsburgh Won Only Major Game Yesterday

Playing with a hopelessly outclassed ball club has not dimmed the batting eye of Wally Berger or killed his spirit. The big slugger of the baffled Boston Braves is wasting a lot of fine talent with a team that is so far in the mist it cannot see the shore. The Braves hold last place in the National League by nineteen games.

Berger has collected twenty-five home runs, twenty-two doubles and four triples and he leads the league in the number of runs driven in with ninety-five. In a team that is shot with feeble hitters, he stands out like Boston's Bunker Hill monument.

BRILLIANT STICKING

Berger had a field day against Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday, totaling thirteen bases in nine times at bat. Eleven of these bases came in the first game of the doubleheader when he hit a homer with the bases crowded, a triple and two doubles. Yet the Braves lost both games.

Casey Stengel, the Dodger's pilot, sat in the dugout and mused out loud. He was thinking of the fellow who has hit more homers than all of the Brooklyn outfielders put together.

"A guy like that on this ball team," said Casey, "would make Mrs. Stengel's son very happy and the opponents very sad. That's our big trouble. We haven't a fellow who can get up there in the pinches and hit one out of the lot."

But one game was played in the major leagues yesterday. Pittsburgh Pirates cut the Braves' run for hope's honors a bit when they defeated the services as honorary page in the Legislature.

Lou N. Bloom, president of the District A.A.U., issued a statement saying the board of directors was not in possession of sufficient facts to come to a decision.

Since it was discovered Owens received $159 since the Legislature adjourned June 9 as an "honorary" page, Ohio state athletic officials and others have said the receipt of this money "in no way jeopardizes his amateur standing because his work for the Legislature has no connection with athletics."

NO DECISION ON AMATEUR STATUS OF TRACK STAR OVER SALARY AS PAGE

Cleveland, Aug. 13.—The amateur standing of Jesse Owens, Ohio State track and field star, remained status quo to-day.

The Northeastern Ohio Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at a special meeting yesterday discussed acceptance by Owens of $159 from the State of Ohio as salary for seventh place Cincinnati Reds 7 to 4. The Pirates collected fourteen hits from four Cincinnati hurlers as they topped the series, three games to two.

Pittsburgh hopped off to an early lead, scoring three runs in the first inning as Al Hollingsworth, rookie southpaw, took cover from the barrage. Another rookie, Emmett Nelson, was sent in to face the fire and he did a good job until the seventh inning when he was taken out for a pinch hitter. He had allowed but one run, scored in the second.

Don Brennan, the third pitcher to see action for the Reds, yielded two runs in the last half of the seventh, and Benny Frey took over the pitching task in the eighth.

Forest Jensen and Tom Padden got three hits apiece for Pittsburgh. Red Lucas started on the mound for the Pirates but he was relieved by Ralph Birkhofer after the fifth when the Reds scored three times.

COAST LEAGUE

Current standing for the second half of the Coast League's split season might have been made to the order of once inspiring club owners.

In recent years the top-sided strength of one team, usually the Los Angeles, has all but eliminated fan interest in pennant drives. They were cut and dried.

Now the only top-sided feature about the standings is the number of teams with averages over the .500 mark. Six clubs are in this class. Seattle at .509, is just three ball games away from the leading San Francisco Seals at .546. One of the six teams could be in first place at the end of another week of play.

The pace-setting Seals skinned close to disaster last week when they dropped four of seven games to the then last place Sacramento Senators.

This week they take on the far tougher Los Angeles Angels, in fourth place one full game from the top.

The Senators play host to the Seattle Indians, while the second-place Missions and the fifth-place Oaks tangle at Oakland.

The fast climbing Portland club, in third place, half a game from the leadership, has the best chance to disrupt the present standings.

COUNCIL WORK UNDER REVIEW

Dr. W. A. Carrothers Tells Kiwanis of Facts Found By Economic Body

Work which the British Columbia Economic Council is doing to provide facts upon which may be based steps towards rectification of the adverse trade situation in this province was reviewed by Dr. W. A. Carrothers, chairman of the council, in a talk to members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

His subject was "The Economic Position of British Columbia Within the Canadian Federation."

One of the major pieces of the council's work was to make a scientific and economic investigation of B.C.'s position in the Canadian federation, Dr. Carrothers said.

TRADE POSITION

He did not propose to go into the merits of the position, but intended to take the trade position and its situation in regard to the wellbeing of the people of the province.

One thing which was quite evident was that "we are extremely dependent on foreign countries for wellbeing." We get our living in the main from other people, he said.

SELF-SUFFICIENCY

In regard to suggestions for becoming self-sufficient, Dr. Carrothers said it was impossible under present conditions.

The population of 700,000 was insignificant from the point of view of marketing products.

Last year there was a net adverse balance in agricultural exports of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. Agriculture was a subsidiary industry in the province, he said.

The position was different in other basic industries, such as forestry, fishing and mining. In regard to the first he pointed out how impossible it would be to create a local demand for all timber cut in B.C.

LOWER LIVING

"If we attempted to live within ourselves we would inevitably lower our standard of living," he asserted, and the same was true of the whole of Canada, which was dependent on its primary industries to maintain its standard of living.

Because of the national trade policy British Columbia purchased manufactured goods from eastern Canada. This created the question for the council of deciding whether there was any way in which the wellbeing of British Columbia might be improved.

OBTAINED STATISTICS

After some months of study on this subject the council was asked for a statistical picture of the situation. The difficulty there was to get the facts, which meant extracting provincial statistics from Dominion figures. Eventually a reasonably accurate picture was given which showed the major part of British Columbia products was sold out of Canada, while the major part was purchased in Canada.

Then came the question of direct trade exchange rather than securing this revenue in such a roundabout way.

Because income came this way, it was found that more exports had to be sold than if there was a direct exchange.

For example, in 1932 British Columbia's trading position was only 68 per cent of that of eastern Canada's. In other words, there was 32 cents return for every dollar exported.

In 1933 it was 70 per cent, and last year it was 78 per cent.

BRITISH COLUMBIA LOSES

In the period studied it had been found British Columbia was in a disadvantageous trading position, selling in one market and buying in another.

The council was studying this effect of Canadian tariff policy on each industry, Dr. Carrothers said.

The council was seeking facts of this effect on the people in order that legislators might confer on these facts, and possibly modify the constitution.

The national policy of Canada was against British Columbia, he said.

Dr. A. R. Menzies expressed thanks to the speaker.

PAY FINAL TRIBUTE

The funeral of Mrs. Isabella Elizabeth Mann was held yesterday afternoon. Many friends attended the service, which was conducted by Rev. J. Smith Patterson. Beautiful flowers surrounded the casket and the hymn "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was sung.

The pallbearers were W. Hooper, J. W. Hooper, W. E. Copp and N. Robinson. Interment took place in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

IS FINED FOR FOUL ASSAULT

For giving Dr. S. F. Miles a cowardly kick during an argument in the doctor's office last Saturday morning, Arthur Lidger Salmon was fined $25, with an option of ten days' imprisonment, in the City Police Court this morning.

The doctor testified the accused had come to him for dental treatment and had ordered him to do certain work which the doctor did not think was necessary.

The accused had become abusive and the doctor had asked him to leave, when he started swearing, Dr. Miles stated.

As Salmon was leaving the office, Dr. Miles testified he had turned around and given him a foul kick which necessitated medical attention. Dr. B. J. Endicott gave evidence of attending Dr. Miles, while Miss Jean Fenwick, a patient of Dr. Miles, told of witnessing the kick in the doctor's waiting room.

The accused denied kicking the doctor and testified the doctor had thrown him out of the office and through a window across the hall from his reception room.

Two previous convictions, one of assault, were read against the accused.

HAS MASONIC FUNERAL

In the presence of many sorrowing friends and fellow Masons, funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Edward Clough, 634 Cornwall Street. Very Rev. C. S. Quinlan officiating. One hymn, "Rock of Ages" and a solo, "Now the Laborer's Task Is O'er" were sung.

Officers and members of Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1 A.F. and A.M. attended the service in a body, and Worshipful Master F. W. Bartholomew read the Masonic burial service at the graveside. Many beautiful floral tributes were received, testifying to the esteem in which Mr. Clough was held.

Interment was in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park, and the following members of Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1 A.F. and A.M. acted as pallbearers: Worshipful Brothers E. P. Allen, Fred Hancock, C. M. Parrott, A. W. Strathern and Brothers James T. Bass and A. E. Greenwood.

LAST RITES TO-MORROW

Funeral services for George William Bainbridge, who passed away Saturday, will be conducted to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Bands Mortuary Chapel, under the auspices of Columbia Lodge No. 2, I.O.P.F. The remains will be interred in Royal Oak Burial Park.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A meeting of C.C.P. Unemployed Council will be held in the parish hall, Esquimalt, at 8 p.m. to-morrow.

President Rowan MacKenzie to-day urged all members of the Kiwanis Club to attend the district convention in Vancouver this month.

Three pay envelopes, totaling nearly $30, were stolen from the Pacific Sheet Metal Works, Yates Street, yesterday evening, according to a city police report.

William Harkness, local magician, entertained members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day with a number of clever sleight-of-hand tricks.

H.M.S. Danes will not be open to the public to-morrow because of the dance which is being held aboard her in the evening. U.S.S. Salt Lake City will be closed Saturday.

A dance will be held this evening in the K. of P. Hall, 1415 Broad Street. Broughton's orchestra will supply the music. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

Sunken Garden For Buildings

Excavations Commenced For Plot on West Side of Parliament Square

Beautification of the Parliament Buildings grounds this year will include the construction of a sunken garden on the west side of the square.

Excavation work has been commenced under the direction of the Department of Public Works. The sunken plot will cover a plot eighty feet by forty-eight feet, going down to the depth of two and one-half feet.

A rock wall will be built up around the sides. In the centre a sundial, presented to the government by H. C. Gunson, 511 Yates Street, will be installed. "Crazy paths" leading around the plot are planned, with steps outward at either end.

A fine collection of delphiniums, lilies and other fine shrubs which were presented from the gardens of the late W. J. Shepherd, will be planted.

Around the outer part of the sunken garden box hedges will be planted, with seats at intervals along the border.

A proposal for improving the appearance of the grounds at night is being discussed. This would involve the use of colored floodlights to illuminate the water sprinklers on the front lawns of the buildings. It would make a beautiful foreground against the lighted buildings at night.

MANY ENJOY NAVY EVENTS

Luncheon and Indian Spectacle Features on To-day's Programme

Invitational social engagements, a highly successful open-air concert by the Adlon Club before the Parliament Buildings yesterday evening and a civic luncheon in the Empress Hotel at noon to-day were features of the first day and one-half celebration of Navy Week here.

This evening the Indian festival at Athletic Park will hold the spotlight, while members of the Canadian Scottish mess will entertain officers of the ships at the Armories.

Yesterday evening petty officers of the U.S.S. Salt Lake City, H.M.S. Danes and the Canadian Navy were entertained at the Canadian Scottish sergeants' mess at a function to which the city lent its assistance.

The downtown section of Victoria was expected to take on a more festive appearance late this afternoon as three bus loads of men from the Salt Lake City thronged the streets, mingling with the citizens, and men of the Canadian and British boats.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT

Large crowds which congregated before the Parliament Buildings yesterday evening for the open air concert of the Adlon Club, joined to-day in making the event an unqualified success. It was the only public function on yesterday's programme.

Following the civic luncheon to-day, city officials and ships officers continued their rounds of visits, mainly of an informal nature.

War dances and songs, culminating in a big tribal wedding, will be a feature of the Indian festivities at the Athletic Park this evening.

Staged under the auspices of the Dominion Day celebration committee, the spectacle is expected to draw large crowds. It is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Following this evening's programme, main interest will centre in the sports meet at Macdonald Park to-morrow. With many officers descending a half holiday, the track and field meet, starting at 1:30 o'clock, should be well patronized.

LAST RITES FOR YOUTH

In the presence of many sympathizing friends, funeral services were held at St. Mark's Church yesterday for Edward Bryan Haut, who was accidentally drowned at the Gorge last Thursday.

Rev. O. L. Jull conducted the service during which two hymns, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Jesus Lives," were sung. Interment was made in Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: V. Snider, F. Kyle, V. Dear, B. Clark, R. Ferris and L. Humphrey.

Montreal, Aug. 13.—Bound for Victoria, Dr. J. S. Plaskett, retiring director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, arrived here to-day from Oxford University, England, where he delivered the famous Halley lecture. He also attended the International Astronomers Union at Paris.

Reign of Cone Is Threatened

Ice Cream on Stick Becomes Very Popular, Making Third Change in History of This Business

The ice cream cone, which for over twenty years has been an unchallenged favorite, now has a formidable rival.

It is not that ice cream has gone out of favor, for confectioners say that as the king of all summer dainties it never will.

Modern days with their changing fashions are threatening the reign of the ice cream cone.

Since the advent of the "all-day sucker" the idea of candy on a stick has spread to all classes and kinds of sweetmeats.

When the season for ice cream came along someone devised the bright idea of ice cream on a stick.

It was an instantaneous success. Chocolate and caramel coated ice cream on a stick under a variety of names is sold to eager youngsters, and also adults.

It immediately established a popularity over ice cream cones.

"WEREWOLF" IS AT DOMINION

Thrilling Story of London

Starring Henry Hull Opens To-day

Remember "Dracula," "The Old Dark House," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "Frankenstein," and "The Mummy?"

Well—roll all the thrills, chills and excitement of these pictures into one, and you'll have "Werewolf of London," which is being shown at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

"Werewolf of London" is a picture based on the fabled creatures called "werewolves," creatures who are men most of the time but who become transformed into wolves each month during the full of the moon. It is then that they prowl the darkened streets tearing the life-blood from humans to satiate their wolfish blood lust.

Henry Hull, one of the greatest character actors of modern times, plays the title role in this film. Warner Oland is another who is seen as half man and half wolf. Valerie Hobson is the wife of Hull, and the high spot of the picture is the scene in which she sees the man she loves turning into a wolf and attempting to kill her. It is a gripping story of a British scientist who is bitten by a werewolf while on an expedition into the wilds of Tibet. And then his return to his home in England follows his suffering and his murders.

In the supporting cast are Lester Mathews, Spring Byington, Clark Williams, Charlotte Granville, J. M. Kerrigan and many other notable screen players. The film was directed by Stuart Walker.

Also being shown as second feature on this programme is Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "The Nitwits."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

A thoroughly appreciative audience applauded heartily the appearance here yesterday of "Hector and His Pals" a splendid canine vaudeville act at the Playhouse Theatre.

The act which came directly from the opening of the new Lyric Theatre in Vancouver will play at performances to-day and again to-morrow.

"Hector and His Pals" provide an entirely new entertaining type of vaudeville. The fifteen performing dogs, all in various sizes, breeds, display unusual intelligence and appear to delight in the fun of entertaining with Mr. Hector.

The dogs which are so different than the hard trained type commonly found with circus troupes, show a keen devotion to their owner Mr. Hector.

"Star of Midnight," the current feature provides a wonderful background for the screen's newest romantic and super sleuth combination of William Powell and Ginger Rogers. The story is based on Arthur Somers Roche's magazine serial of the same name.

The masters of slapstick invade the sleuthing profession to detect a roving terrorist; and a howling affair results when Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey dabble in song-writing, hounding, romancing and dancing in "The Nitwits." SHORT TRUMP SQUEEZES

Declarer Gets Rid of Own Long Suit by Ruffing, Then Applies Screws With Dummy's Cards

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

The squeeze play is generally executed by leading a long suit, and forcing an opponent to discard a winner or to unguard a potential winner. To-day's hand presents an interesting variation, in which the squeeze is applied from the short side of the trump suit, declarer first having disposed of his long trumps by ruffing.

When the dummy went down, declarer could count eleven sure tricks, two short of his contract. One trick might be gained by ruffing two spades in his own hand, and possibly the fourth heart would become established for the thirteenth trick.

However, experience had taught this declarer not to depend on a 3-2 break in a suit, if any alternative plan was possible.

After a little study, declarer saw the possibility of a squeeze, if one opponent should be long in both hearts and diamonds.

THE PLAY

He won the first diamond trick with the ace, led his singleton spade to the ace in dummy, and returned a small spade to be ruffed in his own hand. Dummy was put in with a trump lead and another spade was ruffed by declarer, this time with the queen of clubs.

Declarer now laid down the ace of clubs, followed by the eight, and continued with the last small club from dummy. On the first two trump leads, West could spare two diamonds.

By playing in this manner, declarer took full advantage of his opportunities. He did not give up the chance of a 3-3 break in hearts, but gained the added possibility of a squeeze in the two red suits.

Note that the squeeze would not work if applied from the South hand, for West would have spades to discard on the trump leads, and could thus protect both hearts and diamonds. Declarer had to remove these valuable spade discards from the West hand, before the squeeze could be executed.

(Copyright, 1935, NEA Service Inc.)

Today's Contract Problem

You will find this an interesting hand, in bidding to arrive at six spades. Then, of course, with West's opening of the eight of hearts, it becomes a nice problem to make the hand; but it can be done.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX - I have one of the best wives a man ever had. She is good-looking, loving, kind, a real helpmate and a fine housekeeper, but I have been untrue to her and even forced her to live in the house with the other woman to save my reputation. More than this, I made her stand for it when the other woman sneered at her and said cruel, mean things to her. Now I am tired of the other woman and want my wife back, but I am afraid she will not love me or respect me again. How can I make her feel toward me as she did before I treated her so badly?

ANOTHER FOOL.

Answer: Well, brother, you can't. The trouble with our foolishness is that we can never undo it. We have to go on paying for it as long as we live. We may repent it in bitterness and tears, but not all the water that flows from our eyes can wipe out the score against us.

We talk a lot of nonsense about forgiving and forgetting, but in reality neither is possible. We think we can betray those who love us, that we can trample their pride in the dust, that we can stab them with cruel speeches, that we can neglect them, that we can show ourselves mean and selfish and untrustworthy and then, when we are got over our temporary infatuation or feel in a good humor again or need their help in some way, we can say that we are sorry, and that those who have wronged will immediately become oblivious to our offences against them and restore us to our old place in their esteem.

But it never happens. It cannot happen any more than you can tread a rose in the dust and make its crushed and bruised petals whole again, or than you can shatter a vase and make it perfect again. What is done, is done, and cannot be changed.

Men are particularly strong in their faith in the repentance theory as applied to their wives. They think that when they are tired of philandering that their wives should welcome them back home with a brass band, and promptly forgive and forget all the indignities to which they have been subjected. Why they expect this miracle to take place, and for a woman to be able to trust a man who has shown himself untrustworthy, and to admire and respect one who has shown himself so weak that any adventuresome cat could take him in, is beyond explanation. It is simply one of the things about men that no woman ever understands.

Of course, many women do make the gesture of pretending to forgive and forget because it saves their faces and puts the relationship between them and their recalcitrant spouses on a more agreeable basis, but deep down in their hearts wives never forget, no matter how deeply they bury their wrongs in silence.

The moral of all of which is that if a man wishes to keep his wife's love he must never throw it away.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX - I would never contemplate marrying a man in moderate circumstances for I have had enough drudgery in my life. I could never settle down into being a man's scullery maid. My life has been too active. A woman can learn to love any man who is worth his salt and has the essential sugar in his pocket. Just what are your reactions to the logical calculations of a

MODERN MISS.

Answer: It has been my observation that logic flies out of the window when loves comes knocking at the door, and that the most carefully laid plans of girls go haywire when some personable youth comes whistling down the street and beckons them to follow.

Of nothing am I more firmly convinced than that you cannot love to order. You can admire and respect a man for his good qualities, but it won't raise your temperature or send a single quiver up and down your spine to know that he is kind to his mother and has money in the bank. The something that makes you palpitate and thrill and that causes some one particular man to be the whole universe to you has nothing whatever to do with his virtues, or his ability to support you in the style in which you desire to live.

Of course, much is to be said for the sensible marriage, the marriage that is based on reason and not on sentiment. Undoubtedly those who pick out their mates with their heads instead of their hearts, and who select a wife or a husband because he or she is industrious and thrifty and a good manager, may generally count on a quiet and placid existence and keeping out of the divorce court. Provided, of course, that after a while they do not get tired of plain bread and butter and long for cake.

And it is always an ever present danger, that after a while the marriage that was loveless in its origin, and that the man and woman who thought that they were loveless would find some other woman or man with whom they fall wildly, desperately, hopelessly in love. For Cupid has a way of avenging himself upon those who mock him.

And there is still another danger when you marry for money, and that is you may lose the money and then you have nothing. But don't kid yourself into thinking that you can love to order. It can't be done. Otherwise there would be fewer mismatched people than there are.

Uncle Wiggily's Eggs

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and the jolly Sea Dog, who had a small farm near the rabbit gentleman's Green Lake cottage, were very good friends.

"I knew I was going to be friends with you from the time you put your old umbrella over the man here so he wouldn't get wet when he was hatching out his little ducks," said the Sea Dog with a harking laugh.

"And I always did love to be near a farm," said Uncle Wiggily. "When I found out you had a farm I knew I would be friends with you. So everything is all right."

"Of course," barked the Sea Dog. "Every day before he went to look for an adventure Uncle Wiggily would stop at the Sea Dog's farm to speak to the jolly chap. Sometimes the Sea Dog was busy he might be planting old bones that would grow into cans of soup. At such times the rabbit gentleman would not stay very long but would just call out 'Hello!' and would hop off adventuring."

HAD BASKET ON PAW

But on a certain afternoon, when Uncle Wiggily hopped over to the farm and saw the Sea Dog out near the barn with a basket on one paw, the rabbit, thinking the farmer animal was busy, was about to hop away, when he heard Mr. Dog bark and say:

"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily. I wish you would do something for me."

"Of course I will, if I can," said Mr. Longears, for he was very fond of helping others. "What is it?"

"Eggs," answered the Sea Dog. "Eggs!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily in surprise. "Do you mean you want me to go to the store and get you some eggs in that basket?"

"Oh, no, thank you!" laughed the Sea Dog. "I have plenty of eggs right here, but I can't get them. One of my hens laid a lot of eggs under the barn. Hens like to lay eggs in places hard to reach. At least, this hen did. She won't bring the eggs out to me and I can't crawl under the barn to get them."

"Why can't you crawl under the barn?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"Because I'm too fat. I might get stuck there. But you are thin and you can easily crawl under the barn and get the eggs out of the nest. Take this basket with you and bring me the eggs. Rabbits are very good at finding eggs, aren't they?"

CRAWLED UNDER BARN

"Yes," laughed Uncle Wiggily, "especially at Easter. Well, I'll crawl under the barn and get the eggs for you. Give me the basket."

There was a hole under the barn, just large enough for Uncle Wiggily to crawl in, and this he did, fastening himself on his stomach. It was dark under the barn, but the eggs were white and the bunny saw them in a little hollow place ahead of him. The hen wasn't there and he was so sure of this, because he thought if she was on the nest and he took her eggs she might pick him with her beak.

So Uncle Wiggily put the eggs in the basket and started to crawl out from beneath the barn. He had gotten into such a small, narrow place that he was stuck fast!

"Oh, my goodness!" barked the Sea Dog. "Wait a minute. I'll help you. I'll go in the barn and take up one of the floor boards. You can get out that way."

When the board was taken up Uncle Wiggily hopped out that way, duly and with a lot of hen feathers on his fur. But he didn't mind and he laughed and so did

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1935.

Threatening clouds are seen in the horoscope of to-day, according to astrology. Promises of business activity next month is seen, but for the twenty-four hours the stars frown upon the planet Earth.

While persons holding government offices and other places of security are subject to other influences they will inspire envy and jealousy at this time and there will be widespread economic uncertainty among average men and women.

Duplex is in a place that bodes ill for enterprise. Caution will guide business men, who thus must retard many important projects.

There is an aspect making for unrest and inability to accept life conditions as they develop. Danger lies in the coming winter, which will be a period of sensational events.

The stars emphasize the need of cultivating self-reliance and independence. They recommend careful building from small centres of work and they stress community co-operation.

Warning is given that political propaganda will be widely disseminated and will cause much ill in the coming winter, which will be a period of sensational events.

Gambling is to add to the financial difficulties of many persons in all walks of life. It is predicted, for there is to be a reckless spirit abroad that indulges in many risks.

Terrific wind storms, cyclones and unusual spells of autumn weather are prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of exciting experiences. They should be on guard at all times to avoid litigation and money losses.

Children born on this date may be extremely ambitious. Subjects of this sign usually are much in the limelight and they do not mind being conspicuous.

John Galsworthy, noted English author, was born on this day, 1867. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Ernest Thompson Seton, author of "The Red Rover," and Part Benjamin, editor and poet, 1860.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have one of the best wives a man ever had. She is good-looking, loving, kind, a real helpmate and a fine housekeeper, but I have been untrue to her and even forced her to live in the house with the other woman to save my reputation. More than this, I made her stand for it when the other woman sneered at her and said cruel, mean things to her. Now I am tired of the other woman and want my wife back, but I am afraid she will not love me or respect me again. How can I make her feel toward me as she did before I treated her so badly?

Answer: Well, brother, you can't. The trouble with our foolishness is that we can never undo it. We have to go on paying for it as long as we live. We may regret it in bitterness and tears, but not all the water that flows from our eyes can wipe out the score against us.

We talk a lot of nonsense about forgiving and forgetting, but in reality neither is possible. We think we can betray those who love us, that we can trample their pride in the dust, that we can stab them with cruel speeches, that we can neglect them, that we can show ourselves mean and selfish and untrustworthy and then, when we have got over our temporary infatuation or feel in a good humor again or need their help in some way, we can say that we are sorry, and that those who have wronged will immediately become oblivious to our offences against them and restore us to our old place in their esteem.

But it never happens. It cannot happen any more than you can tread a rose in the dust and make its crushed and bruised petals whole again, or than you can shatter a vase and make it perfect again. What is done, is done, and cannot be changed.

Men are particularly strong in their faith in the repentance theory as applied to their wives. They think that when they are tired of philandering that their wives should welcome them back home with a brass band, and promptly forgive and forget all the indignities to which they have been subjected. Why they expect this miracle to take place, and for a woman to be able to trust a man who has shown himself untrustworthy, and that those who have wronged will immediately become oblivious to our offences against them and restore us to our old place in their esteem. It is simply one of the things about men that no woman ever understands.

Of course, many women do make the gesture of pretending to forgive and forget because it saves their faces and puts the relationship between them and their recent spouses on a more agreeable basis, but deep down in their hearts wives never forget, no matter how deeply they bury their wrongs in silence.

The moral of all of which is that if a man wishes to keep his wife's love he must never throw it away.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I would never contemplate marrying a man in moderate circumstances for I have had enough drudgery in my life. I could never settle down into being a man's scullery maid. My life has been too active. A woman can learn to love any man who is worth his salt and has the essential sugar in his pocket. Just what are your reactions to the logical calculations of a...

Answer: It has been my observation that logic flies out of the window when loves comes knocking at the door, and that the most carefully laid plans of girls go haywire when some personable youth comes whistling down the street and beckons them to follow.

Of nothing am I more firmly convinced than that you cannot love to order. You can admire and respect a man for his good qualities, but it won't raise your temperature or send a single quiver up and down your spine to know that he is kind to his mother and has money in the bank. The something that makes you palpitate and thrill and that causes some one particular man to be the whole universe to you has nothing whatever to do with his virtues, or his ability to support you in the style in which you desire to live.

Of course, much is to be said for the sensible marriage, the marriage that is based on reason and not on sentiment. Undoubtedly those who pick out their mates with their heads instead of their hearts, and who select a wife or a husband because he or she is industrious and thrifty and a good manager, may generally count on a quiet and placid existence and keeping out of the divorce court. Provided, of course, that after a while they do not get tired of plain bread and butter and long for cake.

And it is always an ever present danger, that after a while the marriage that has no love in it will go flat, and that the man and woman who thought that they were loveproof will find some other woman or man with whom they fall wildly, desperately, hopelessly in love. For Cupid has a way of avenging himself upon those who mock him.

And there is still another danger when you marry for money, and that is you may lose the money and then you have nothing. But don't kid yourself into thinking that you can love to order. It can't be done. Otherwise there would be fewer mismatched people than there are.

Uncle Wiggily's Eggs

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and the jolly Sea Dog who had a small farm near the rabbit gentleman's Green Lake cottage were very good friends.

"I knew I was going to be friends with you from the time you went to school," said the Sea Dog, "but I didn't know you were so smart."

"And I always did love to be near a farm," said Uncle Wiggily. "When I found out you had a farm I knew I would be friends with you. So everything is all right."

"Of course," barked the Sea Dog. "Every day before you went to school for an adventure Uncle Wiggily would stop at the Sea Dog's farm to speak to the jolly chap. Sometimes the Sea Dog was busy scratching up the weeds in his garden or he might be planting old bones that would grow into cans of soup. At such times the rabbit gentleman would not stay very long but would just call out 'Hello' and would hop off adventuring."

HAD BASKET ON PAW

But on a certain afternoon, when Uncle Wiggily hopped over to the farm and saw the Sea Dog out near the barn with a farmer animal was busy about to hop away, when he heard Mr. Dog bark and say:

"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily. I wish you would do something for me."

"Of course I will, if I can," said Mr. Longears, for he was very fond of helping others. "What is it?"

"Eggs," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily in surprise. "Do you mean you want me to go to the store and get you some eggs in that basket?"

"Oh, no, thank you!" laughed the Sea Dog. "I have plenty of eggs right here, but I can't get them. One of my hens laid a lot of eggs under the barn. Hens like to lay eggs in places hard to reach. At least, this hen did. She won't bring the eggs out to me and I can't crawl under the barn to get them."

"Why can't you crawl under the barn?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"Because I'm too fat," I might get stuck there. But you aren't fat. You can easily crawl under the barn and get the eggs out of the nest. Take this basket with you and bring me the eggs. Rabbits are very good at finding eggs, aren't they?"

CRAWLED UNDER BARN

"Yes," laughed Uncle Wiggily, "especially at Easter. Well, I'll crawl under the barn and get the eggs for you. Give me the basket."

There was a hole under the barn, just large enough for Uncle Wiggily to crawl in, and this he did, flattening himself on his stomach. It was dark under the barn, but the eggs were white and the bunny saw them in a little better place ahead of him. The hen wasn't there and he was glad of this, because he thought if she was on the nest and he took her eggs she might pick him with her beak.

So Uncle Wiggily put one egg in the basket and started to crawl out from beneath the barn. But all of a sudden, he couldn't. He had gotten into such a snug, narrow place that he was stuck fast!

"Oh, goodness!" cried the Sea Dog. "Wait a minute. I'll help you! I'll go in the barn and take up one of the floor boards. You can get out that way."

When the board was taken up Uncle Wiggily hopped out that way dusty and with a lot of hen feathers on his fur. But he didn't mind and he laughed and so did
